Sen. Mansfield Says U. S. Will Not be 'Parched Out'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and his top military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers met for nearly two hours today on how to deal with the new Cuban crisis over the cut-off of water from the Guantanamo Naval Base.

John A. McCone, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, was one of those called into the session without advance announcement.

At the capitol, meanwhile, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana expressed full confidence that Johnson will see to it that the United States is not "parched out" of the Caribbean base.

Czech Embassy Official Talks With Cubans

Sees 29 Fishermen In Gymnasium of Jail at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—An official from the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington conferred today with 36 Cubans arrested for fishing in Florida waters. The fishing in Florida waters, the official said, appears to depend on their fate.

The Czech Embassy's first secretary, Frantisek Telicka, talked in the Monroe County Jail gymnasium with 29 adults held in lieu of $1,000 bond each. A report on the conversation was awaited.

Also Sees Juvenile

Then he conferred with seven juveniles, ordered freed Thursday by Criminal Court Judge Thomas Caro.

Telicka said he did not know how the seven youths would be returned to Cuba or when.

The 29 adult Cubans are held at the jail in a 10x20-foot cell without bunks.

Outside the conversation, heard through the two-story red brick jail Thursday night, indicated they were unhappy.

"All Yankees to the firing squad," one said. After some laughter came the reply: "Yes, everybody practice shooting."

In Tallahassee, State Atty. Gen. James Kynes said Florida would not drop charges of fish-eating in Florida waters of the government's chief witness in the James R. Hoffa trial.

But Kynes emphasized that Florida would cooperate with a second day of questioning of the U. S. State Department in handling the case.

BALBOA, C.Z. (AP) — The Panama Canal Zone's American policemen and pilots are up in arms because Gov. Robert J. Fleming is going to hire 50 Panamanians for the zone's all-American police force.

Fleming said Thursday about 20 Panamanians probably will be integrated into the force next week, and 30 more will be added later. He said the 250-man force ultimately will be increased by 100 men but didn't say whether the additional 50 also would be Panamanians.

Civil Rights Fight Enters Last Stages

Delaying Tactics Threatened in Any Move to Cut Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House moved into the final stages of the civil rights fight today with a threat that unpleasant things will happen if the leadership tries to speed the bill to a final vote.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., leader of the Southern forces opposing the bill, served warning that delaying tactics may be resorted to if efforts are made to cut off debate.

Smith sounded the warning after minority leader Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind., sought approval for the House to meet before noon today and Saturday so a final vote can be taken by Saturday night.

GOP Request Denied

Republicans want to have the 10-part bill behind them when they take to the speakers platform around the nation next at Lincoln Day rallies.

Halleck's request called for unanimous consent under the House rules. and Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., taking his cue from Smith's warning, made the single objection needed to block it.

Smith said the Democratic leadership had promised that no effort to cut off debate would be made if the bill could be finished by next Tuesday. Halleck

Johnson 'Hypocrisy' Rapped By GOP National Chairman

William Miller Urges Outagamie Republicans to Become Unified

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Republicans were urged Thursday to tell the country about the "hypocrisy" of the Johnson Administration and to project a picture of party unity.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the national Republican chairman, told 325 persons at the Outagamie County Republican Lincoln Day dinner at the Conway Hotel that President Johnson's administration is loaded with contradictions.

"He's a Texan who rides two horses," Miller said, "a real operator. While running for two offices in 1960 — U. S. senator from Texas and for vice president, he ran on two platforms."

Alabama Racial Problems Face Growing Tension

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—Tension grew in Alabama's racial difficulties today in the face of expected protest demonstrations by Negro students at Tuskegee Institute.

There was less apprehension at nearby Notasulga but a white boycott of newly desegregated Shorter High School gained momentum. Six Negro pupils remained in the school without disorder.

An estimated 300 students marched quietly around the Tuskegee Institute campus Thursday in what appeared to be a trial run for protests to come.

The dean of students, Dr. S. Bertrand Phillips, said the students would remain on campus through today, but after that, "I can't be sure."

City officials rejected an application for a parade permit.

Beckwith Case Ends in Mistrial

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A mistrial was declared today in the trial of Byron De La Beckwith, a crusading segregationist charged with murdering a Negro civil rights leader.

Circuit Court Judge Leon Hendrick declared the mistrial after the all-white jury, called for individual polling at the end of about 12 hours deliberation, declared themselves hopelessly deadlocked.

Beckwith sat quietly, his hands clasped in his lap as the judge asked individual jurors if there was any hope of a verdict.

Early predictions had been that the case would end in quick acquittal because of the deep passions due to racial aspects.

'Hot' Ring Rings Bell On Sellers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two Green Bay men, totting a rare gold ring stolen in an apartment burglary unwittingly tried to sell it Thursday afternoon — the back to its owner.

The men entered a downtown department store, confronted Robert J. Ambelang and offered to sell a gold ring set with 55 gold pieces of 1909.

"I'll have to contact our buyer for an appraisal," said the surprised Ambelang, who recognized the ring as one stolen from his apartment Wednesday night.

Ambelang, manager of the store's rare coin department, notified the protection department and sent an assistant in search of a policeman.

The two men, both about 20 years old, separated and fled when a traffic patrolman answered the call. They were rounded up after a chase and police were to seek burglary warrants against them today.

Island Violence Grows

New Shooting Breaks Out After Turkish Cypriot Village Burns

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A shooting in mountains near the north coast port of Kyrenia today heightened tension in the Cyprus crisis, though a government spokesman said there were no casualties.

A chain reaction of violence threatened after the killing of 11 men, was left in flames.

The spokesman said the Greek Cypriots did not return the fire and retreated without being hit. Greek Cypriot survivors of yesterday's battle said that six-hour engagement was set off by a Turkish ambush. The Turkish village of Ayios Sozomenos, 10 miles south of Nicosia, was left in flames.

Tribunal Holds Senate's Rejection Does Not Bar Reappointment to Offices

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled today that Howard Koop and Frank Zeidler can serve as directors of the departments of Administration and Resource Development even though their appointments once were rejected by the State Senate.

The decision, written by Chief Justice George Currie, upheld Gov. John W. Reynolds' authority to reappoint the state officials to the two important posts.

Republicans who control the Senate refused confirmation of the original Koop and Zeidler appointments on Nov. 13. Eleven days later they were taken off the state payroll on orders from the attorney general.

Senate Seems Ready to Pass Tax Cut Bill

Mansfield Looks For Approval This Afternoon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appeared ready today to give its final approval, by an overwhelming margin, to the $11.6 billion tax cut bill.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield, calling his colleagues in two hours early for the sixth straight day, said he was confident the passage vote would come this afternoon.

Practically all individuals and corporations would get a break under the bill. Most individuals would get reductions of about 19 per cent.

One major hurdle remained for Johnson administration forces who have been in control throughout the long debate.

Spending Ceiling Sought

It was an amendment of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to clamp on a $100 billion government spending ceiling so that the individual and corporate tax cuts in the bill would be rescinded any time federal outlays exceeded that figure.

The spending total for the current year ending June 30 is estimated at $98.4 billion. President Johnson has submitted a $97.9 billion budget for the year starting July 1.

Democratic leaders expected to beat down the McClellan proposal with arguments that it would be inflexible and unworkable.

New construction in Appleton during January totaled $584,813, considerably behind January, 1963.

Two major building projects started last month were a $300,000 office structure at Appleton Wire Works and a $60,000 office building for the H. C. Prange Co.

Building Inspector Charles Magnette said 12 new homes started in January accounted for $177,000 worth of construction.

In January, 1963, the building total was $1,708,545. Included was the permit for the $1.5 million First National Bank building to be completed sometime this year.

Fair Building Bids May be Taken in March

Winnebago County Looks to Plans For Structure

OSHKOSH — Bids may be taken late in March for the new fair products and 4-H building at the county fairgrounds, architect Leonard Reinke of the firm of Irion and Reinke advised the county fair, park, conservation and recreation committee Thursday night.

Plans for the new building, budgeted at $50,000, were reviewed by the committee with Reinke and Robert Misky, fair association secretary and fair manager.

Two proposals were offered to the committee. One would be a concrete block building with a built up roof and the other would be a metal building. The committee decided in favor of the metal building.

Year-Round Use

The new building will be erected for year-round use and for numerous purposes besides the exhibits of 4-H projects and farm product in the county fair. It could be used for trade shows, home shows, meetings, banquets and roller skating, it was suggested.

A building that size could accommodate 1,000 persons viewing exhibits or 800 to 900 at a banquet or in chairs for a convention, Reinke said.

A large 12 by 14 foot door will be on the west end toward the grandstand, large enough for moving trucks and semi-trailers into the building for unloading or for displays.

Urge County Recreation Area at Omro

OSHKOSH — Establishment of a county park and recreation area along the Fox River on the outskirts of Omro is being urged by the Omro Businessmen's Association.

The Omro Businessmen's Club has secured an option for one year on the purchase of about 300 acres of land immediately east of the Omro City limits. The land will be held until the county decides if it wishes to purchase. Present owners are Henry and Ernst Peterson.

The 300 acre site would sell for about $250 to $300 an acre the county fair, park, conservation and recreation committee indicated at its meeting Thursday night.

Businessmen Resist Parking Ban on Oneida

Council Refers Recommendations To Committee

Opposition to a city's plan to ban parking on Oneida Street in a two-block downtown area apparently has cropped up among a segment of the business community.

As a result, the common council has referred the recommendations of City Planner Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen back to the public safety committee.

Ald. Richard Huisman (1st) requested the referral when the council met Wednesday night. Committee members anticipated some unfavorable reaction and a struggle when they made their original recommendation a few weeks ago.

The committee is recommending no parking on both sides of Oneida Street from Lawrence to Washington Streets.

Other recommendations include:

- Oneida Street be divided into three lanes of traffic.
- The left lane from Lawrence to Washington be for left turn movements only.
- The right lane between Lawrence Street and College Avenue be for right turns or straight ahead traffic.
- The middle lane between Lawrence and Washington, and the right lane between College Avenue and Washington Street be for straight ahead traffic only.

To Be Heard

Among those to be heard on the proposed traffic pattern change for the downtown district are tenants of the Zuelke Building, the Appleton YMCA and John Conway of the Conway Hotel.

A basic criteria for a functional one-way street system will be at stake in the deliberations when the committee meets next week. Professional planners and traffic engineers say no parking should be allowed on a one-way street, which should be used primarily for moving traffic.

Vocational Education Pushed Into Spotlight

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Crucial to the success of President Johnson's "war on poverty" is the Vocational Education Act of 1963—one of the most sweeping pieces of education legislation in U. S. history. Here are key details.

What is now to be spent for education? Under the act federal aid will more than quadruple by 1967. To initiate programs the vocational education budget just for this fiscal year to end June 30 is being upped $60 million.

For the 1965 fiscal year Congress has authorized $148.5 million in new funds. Thereafter, the budget is to climb steeply, to reach $260 million annually in fiscal year 1967.

Never before has this type of education received so much attention. The funds are to go in grants to the states for expansion and improvement of existing vocational education programs, for teacher salaries and teacher training programs, for construction of schools, purchases of supplies, equipment, materials.

Urban Slums

Money is to be spent on experimental vocational "boarding schools" in urban slum areas where the rate of school drop-outs is frighteningly high. Funds are to go into work-study programs for youngsters who can't afford to continue study unless they have some earnings. There are to be research grants to colleges, universities and private agencies for the development of experimental programs to help youths who have severe academic, social, economic or other handicaps that prevent them from making progress in regular education systems.

How will today's vocational education be changed? First, vocational education programs will be vastly expanded from coast to coast. Facilities, teaching staffs, classroom space will at least double in the next three to four years.

Second, vocational education curricula will be drastically revised to meet today's job needs. Subjects which are virtually ignored today will be included—such as stenotyping and a whole range of new community services for women, radiography, and electronics. Instrumentation technology, computer programming and many other "high skill" trades for men.

ground for academic misfits and will gain vitally important status.

A profoundly magnificent objective of the law is to give dignity and pride to the boy or girl trained through the vocational education system.

What are the "work-study" programs? This is where the new law will pioneer. Starting this July 1, at least $25 million a year will be spent for four years on experimental work-study programs across the country. The programs will be directed at the high school drop-out between the ages of 15 and 21 who simply does not have the money to stay in school.

Up to 25,000 students a year will study part-time and work part-time. They will be paid a subsistence $45 a month and will work in local public service jobs.

What are the vocational "boarding schools"? These probably will be the most experimental and fascinating part of the entire vocational education program, for although the act does not specifically say so, the new boarding schools will be geared to the special needs of the under-motivated, under-educated, economically-deprived racial minorities. Only round-the-clock intensive school environment, experts believe, can really help these out-of-school, unemployed youths.

Five of these residential schools are to be built in our cities' slum areas at a cost of $1 million each—one of them in Washington, D. C. Each school will accommodate about 1,000 students between the ages of 15 grants to colleges, universities and private agencies for the development of experimental programs to help youths who have severe academic, social, economic or other handicaps that prevent them from making progress in regular education systems.

Robert Detloff, boys' guidance director, has noted a great increase in the number of seniors who are sending applications to two or more colleges.

Glamorize Old Purse With Pictures of Movie Stars

BY CAPPY DICK

Use color cutouts, if possible. Arrange them as artistically as possible to win the admiration of your friends. In attaching the pictures, place them where there will be the least wrinkling due to opening and closing the purse. Be clever in your selection of pictures for the purse. Pictures of your home (Figure 1) or of news events may lend themselves to the purpose, particularly if you are decorating a large handbag. If the purse is large, one or two big pictures on each side, along with a variety of small cutouts, will be more interesting than if all the pictures are small, or if only one or two large pictures are used on a side without any small pictures.

Sunday Afternoon's Games: Green Bay at Rochester, St. Paul at Waterloo.

GREEN BAY - Waterloo's tireless young Black Hawks are streaking 4 1/2 games ahead of the pack in the United States Hockey League race for three excellent reasons.

The Hawks, who bid to pad their handsome bulge against Green Bay's defending champion Bobcats at home Saturday night, own the USHL's best balanced attack, stingiest defense and leading goalie - a well nigh unbeatable parley.

The Bobcats, saddled with a four-game losing streak, will have their backs squarely to the wall against this imposing combination. They must win or face virtual elimination from title contention, since a defeat would drop them 5 1/2 games back with only nine to play.

4 U. S. Skiers Qualify For Men's Slalom Race in Olympics

Claudia Boyarskikh Gets Third Gold Medal; Sweden's Nilsson Wins Skating Crown

BY TED SMITS... INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—America's hopes for another medal got a strong boost Friday when four of its skiers qualified for Saturday's men's slalom race but the U.S. defending champion hockey team suffered a demoralizing fifth defeat in the Winter Olympic Games.

The Yankee puck chasers, the Cinderella gold medalist of the 1950 Games at Squaw Valley, bowed to little Finland 3-2 for the fifth American defeat in six games.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union's Claudia Boyarskikh won the cross-country skiing for third gold medal, Canada upset the favored Italians in the 4-man bobsled championship and a tireless Swede, Jonny Nilsson, won the 10,000 meter speed skating title.

Miss Boyarskikh anchored the Soviet women's relay team to victory in the 15,000 meter cross-country relay in 59 minutes, 20.2 seconds and became the second biggest medal grabber of these Games.

3 Gold Medals... Her three golds — the others came in the 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer cross-country races — are only superceded by the four won by the Soviet's fabulous speed skating star, Lidia Skoblikova.

The Russians now have a total of 23 medals in all, 10 of them solid gold, an all-time mark.

Nilsson, the world record holder for the distance, won the 10,000 meter speed skating title in 15 minutes, 50.1 seconds. Fred Anton Maier of Norway was second and Knut Johannessen of Norway, the defending champion, was third.

Johannessen and others complained that Nilsson had an advantage in starting early before the track was scraped by a mechanical scraper and slowed by a freshening wind.

The United States had no serious contenders in this event. Wayne LeBomhard of West Allis, Wis., was well back in 17:30.6. Dick Hunt of LaCrescenta, Calif., did not start.

The hockey setback dropped the Americans into a sixth place tie with Germany.

The Soviet Union and Canada, both unbeaten in five games, clash Saturday in the game that probably will decide the championship.

Pat Rupp of Detroit substituted for Tom Yurkovich of Rochester, Minn., who has a bad leg, as goalie and gave a good performance. But the Americans suffered from a lackadaisical defense which enabled the Finns to press their attack.

The U.S. goals were made by Bill Reichert of Rochester, Minn., and Roger Christian of Warroad, Minn.

4 U. S. Qualifiers... The men's slalom qualifiers were Jim Heuga of Tahoe City, Calif.; Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo.; Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., and Chuck Ferris of Houghton, Mich.

They were among the 25 in the unwieldy field of 101 who made the grade on the first of two trial runs down Bergskopet Mountain. A second run was scheduled to pick 25 additional starters for Saturday's finals.

Francois Bonlieu of France, the giant slalom winner, led the qualifiers with a clocking of 51.23 seconds.

The Americans made an excellent showing, buoying hopes.

'New' Badgers Will Clash With Purdue Quint Saturday

Jack Brens to Get Starting Nod at Center

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin Coach John Erickson says the return of center Jack Brens means "a new basketball team" will take the floor Saturday when the Badgers host powerful Purdue.

It will be the first outing this season for Brens who led Wisconsin scorers last year before losing his eligibility because of low grades.

The 6-foot-8 center will give Badgers better defense and rebounding, according to Erickson. "We're stronger with Brens, but there is no reason to feel that all of a sudden we're going to blossom into a contender."

Erickson said Thursday Brens has looked good in practice sessions this week. "He's in fair shape and wants desperately to do a good job for us and I think he will," Erickson said.

Nine Games Left... The Badgers have a 1-4 record in Big Ten play so far and have nine games remaining.

Brens will start at center with Ken Gustafson and Dave Roberts at forwards. Mike O'Melia and Jim Bohen will start at the guard positions.

The return of Brens removes sophomore Mark Zubor from the starting lineup.

"We have worked to try to find a combination to give us a victory Saturday," Erickson said, "and we feel this is it."

But he said Zubor will see plenty of action as will forward Bobby Johnson and guards Dave Drans and Don Hearden.

Purdue has a 3-3 record in conference play and sophomore Dave Schellhase is the Big Ten's third ranked scorer with an average of 27 points per game.

Erickson rates Schellhase and Boilermaker guard Mel Garland as two of the finest players in the conference. Garland ranks 12th in league scoring with a 17.3 point per game average.

Victory Margin... In the first 29 conference games, the home team has taken a 24-5 victory margin. The Illini have lost only once — 81-73 to St. Louis — in seven games in the Assembly Hall.

In the only other Saturday afternoon game, Purdue, 3-3, is at Wisconsin, 1-4, for a regionally televised engagement. One of the country's best sophomore's, Purdue's Dave Schellhase, averaging 27.0 points a game will be in action.

In night attractions Michigan State, 3-5, will try to end nine straight conference losses on the road at Northwestern, 3-3. Minnesota, 4-3, is at Iowa, 1-3.

Owner Claims He Let Americans Use His Automobile

3 Olympians Plead Not Guilty To Charges in Austrian Court

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—The owner of a car which Austrian police allege was stolen by three members of the U.S. Olympic team told a court trying the Americans today: "They are good friends of mine—they had my permission to use my car anytime."

The three U.S. team members—skier Bill Marolt, 20, Aspen, Colo., and tobogganists Mike Hessel, 21, Eugene, Ore., and George Farmer, 25, Seattle, Wash.—appeared in an Austrian court today after their arrest Thursday in a pre-dawn chase and a mid-city clash with police.

The charges against them alleged that they had made unauthorized use of the car of Andre Montant, owner of a French ski pullover factory that supplies the U.S. Winter Olympic team.

Called as Witness... Montant, called as a witness, was asked if Marolt had permission to use his car. He said Marolt and the Americans had permission to use it at an time.

Asked if he planned to file charges against Marolt, Montant replied, "No, of course not."

The three Americans — in crumpled civilian clothes which appeared as if they had slept in them during their two nights and a day in an Innsbruck jail—were escorted into a small courtroom by three officers. They were not handcuffed.

Marolt and Hessel, as they were led past photographers, did not appear to have major injuries. U.S. team officials have charged that both were beaten and kicked by the Austrian police after their arrest. Hessel, however, had a swollen face with cuts and bruises.

Formally Charged... All three were formally charged by prosecutor Dr. Mario Laich with:

1. Violence in public, resisting arrest and attacking five officers.

2. Use of profane language, including calling the officers "Nazi swine."

3. Unauthorized use of an automobile and causing less than $100 worth of damage to another car.

Each was asked by Judge Dr. Franz Obholzer to identify himself. All said they were students with parttime summer income.

Marolt, wearing a blue ski jacket, pleaded not guilty.

Questioned by Judge Obholzer, Marolt said that he had been at a party in an Austrian inn and had had two beers. He left at 1 a.m.

He said he saw the car of A.M. Montand, a French ski dual meet, the Vikes won a sweater manufacturer, with the quadrangular (in which Coe was key hanging in the ignition and, also entered). Lawrence has lost he got in with Buddy Feltman, dual tests to Oshkosh and Grun-24, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, an-

San Francisco Tightens Hold On First Place

Russell Paces Celtics Past Bullets, 94-92

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS... Wilt Chamberlain flipped in 40 points as the San Francisco Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons 104-97 and tightened their hold on first place in the close Western Division race of the National Basketball Association.

Chamberlain and Wayne Hightower combined for 34 points in the second half as the Warriors pulled away after leading by only 60-59 at the half.

The victory at San Jose Thursday night was San Francisco's fourth straight and 10th in a row at "home" for the Warriors. Bailey Howell's 33 points kept the Pistons in contention all the way.

The Boston Celtics nipped the Baltimore Bullets 94-92 and the Philadelphia 76ers whipped the New York Knicks 128-117 in the other NBA games Thursday.

Bill Russell was the big noise as the Celtics weathered a closing Baltimore rally to edge the Bullets before 10,210 at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House in College Park, Md. Big Bill grabbed 34 rebounds and scored 15 points.

Vike Matmen Meet Coe Here Saturday

The Lawrence College wrestling team will face Coe at 3 p.m. Saturday in Alexander Gym.

The Ron Roberts-coached Vikes will be back at full strength for the first time since their victory over Ripon. Co-captain Bill had two beers. He left at 1 a.m.

Besides beating Ripon in a dual meet, the Vikes won a sweater manufacturer, with the quadrangular (in which Coe was key hanging in the ignition and, also entered). Lawrence has lost he got in with Buddy Feltman, dual tests to Oshkosh and Grun-24, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, an-

Winter Olympic Results Are About Normal for U. S. Declares Lentz

BY JIM BECKER
INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—What's wrong with this American Winter Olympics team? Some nervousness; a little lack of luck. Otherwise things are about normal.
"We've won our quota of medals," said Art Lentz, executive secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee. "Let's face it, we are not a Winter Olympics nation. We usually get only two or three gold medals."
"Our only real disappointment has been in men's skiing and that's mainly because of all the publicity about the argument over the seedings for our skiers."
Uncle Sam's athletes have won only four medals—a gold, silver and two bronze—and are unlikely to win any more in the current Games.
Wias Race
Speed skater Terry McDermott captured the gold medal for first place in the 500-meter sprint. Jean Saubert, the talented Alpine skier from Lakeview, Ore., won a silver and a bronze medal for a second and third. Scott Allen, the 14-year-old figure skating prodigy from Smoke Rise, N.J., bagged a bronze medal for third.
Why doesn't the United States produce more winter sports aces?
J. Layman Bingham, head of the American Olympic delegation, had this to say:
"We have a better team than we ever had and we are closing the gaps in some events that are unfamiliar to us."
"We aren't disappointed. We are a little surprised at the improvement the other nations have shown. We are better, but so are they."
A survey of U.S. coaches and officials, most of whom seem highly pleased by American accomplishments so far, produced these reasons why the Americans don't win:
1. The number of American competitors in the sports on the Winter Olympic program.
2. The lack of training facilities for these sports in the United States.
3. Lack of time for training and for the tough international competition that produces winners.
4. The cost of all these things.
5. The remarkable improvement of athletes from other nations—especially the Russians.
2,000,000 Skiers
A few figures tell the story. The Russians, who dominate these games, have two million skiers, two million speed skaters, and from 200,000 to 300,000 hockey players.
Serious American skiers are numbered in the thousands. Russia puts sports on a scientific basis with technical training and the new athletes coming along are the thinking type who are as effective as coaches in developing themselves.
Also the cost of sports participation is kept low. Tass says the best pair of Russian-made skis costs $15, ski boots $10-12, speed skating shoes $12 - 18. Coaches are paid by the state so they cost the athletes nothing.
If an athlete has no money, he can get help from labor or sport collectives. Collective farms also are obliged to help sports with financial contributions.
Comparable U.S. costs for equipment are skis $150, ski boots $65, skates $40. Coaches are either pros who have to make a living or amateurs using their spare time from other jobs. And teams are financed by voluntary contributions.
In Spare Time
McDermott skates in his spare time from his job in an Essexville, Mich. barber shop. He concentrates on the short races because he hasn't time to train for longer races.
McDermott's victory was the first for an American in a Winter Olympics race since 1952. Of the five gold medals won in 1956 and 1960, four were in figure skating and one in hockey.
A tragic airplane crash in 1961 wiped out the entire American figure skating team. The sport is making a strong comeback and Allen, who turns 15 Saturday, has the potential to become a champion by the 1968 Olympics.

Werner, the 27-year-old international veteran of the team, was optimistic. "If the weather stays like this," he said, "We're in good shape."

The Canadian four-man bobsled, driven by rangy Vic Emery, flashed down the glass-slick, 1,640-yard trough at 1gls in 1:04.13 for a combined four-run time of 4:14.46.

The lone U.S. sled, steered by Bill Hickey of Keene, N.Y., finished sixth with a final run of 1:04.79 for 4:17.23. With Hickey were Charles Pandolph of Saranac Lake, N.Y. at the brake; Reg Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Bill Dundon, of Brownsville, N.Y.

The second U.S. sled, driven by Larry McKillip of Saranac Lake, snapped its steering wheel on a practice run Thursday and had to be pulled out of the competition.

The Canadian sled finished 1:02 seconds ahead of the one guided by Austria's Erwin Thaler, timed in 4:15.48, with Eugenio Monti, Italy's eight-time world champion, third in 4:15.89 and Sergio Zardini fourth, in 4:16.19.

"This is the biggest upset in bobsledding history," said the U.S. coach, Stan Benham of Lake Placid. There's not a bobsled run in all of Canada.

Snowmobile Derby Set For Sunday

NEENAH —Seven Neenah drivers will be among the expected 100 racers who will compete in the world's first "snowmobile derby" on Dollar Lake, east of Eagle River, Sunday.

They include Erwin "Tuffy" Jensen, Jack and Bob Reese, Wilmer Rosenthal, Arnold "Sparky" Meyer, Edward Abhold and Harold Wolff.

John Alward, chairman, said the derby will be patterned after the famous dog team derbies held in the far north.

The program will include a cross country race, races against the clock and in heats of five or more, a pulling contest, balloon race and a special women's race, in which Miss Wisconsin, 19-year old Barbara Bonville of Whitefish Bay, will be a contestant.

As a novelty feature, a softball diamond will be laid out on the lake and players will use the snowmobiles in chasing fly balls and rounding the bases.

Because of the increased number of mechanical snowmobiles being used throughout the Midwest for hunting, ice fishing, skiing, cross-country, tobogganing and plain joy riding, the Eagle River derby committee decided to bring together snowmobile operators from Wisconsin and other midwest states in these contests.

wouldn't fall out, and then we scuffled after getting out of the car."

"I then ran away, but a civilian grabbed me and handed me to the police, who took me to headquarters."

Not Deliberately
The judge, who did most of the questioning, asked Marolt if he resisted arrest. The skier replied: "I braced myself against the car and grabbed the back of the seat, so that I wouldn't fall out. It is possible I hit a cop but I didn't do it deliberately."

Why did he attempt to run away the judge asked. "I didn't want to fight them or get into trouble," he said. He said he could not recall hitting a police officer in the face, "but the arms were flying in the scuffle."

He said he was not intoxicated but was excited by the fight. Marolt said that Farmer and Hessel were not in the car with him, but had walked to the station.

"Did you call the police Nazi swine and other names," the prosecutor asked. "No, I did not, and I did not hear anyone use that language," Marolt said.

Marolt said he never was told by police he was under arrest and did not see Farmer and Hessel until they all were taken to police headquarters. They were subsequently moved to another prison and there, Marolt game Classic in Weyauwega, Neenah's Dorothy Allen leads faces."

Farmer was injured in training and had a plaster cast on his arm. "He was holding up his broken arm to avoid the blows of the police," Hessel said.

"The cops immediately started beating me and twisting my arms. I was willing to go with them to the police station but I would not let them rough me up," Hessel said.

Hessel was asked if he used rude language to the police. "I did not insult anybody in the fight. But later, when I was alone with the policemen in the police station I showed him my handcuffed hands and said to him 'you are using Gestapo methods.'"

"The cop then hit me and relating details of the fight at the station, Hessel said that he and Farmer were not trying to escape from the police but merely to get out from under their fists.

Hitting, Shoving
"We hadn't done anything wrong, and just wanted to stop the fighting. They were hitting and shoving us—there were ten policemen against us."

Hessel said that when they were in the second police station, Farmer had his hands tied and a policeman was hitting him.

Farmer's arm was in a cast. "I tried to intervene but my hands were tied, too, and another policeman hit me on the back of the head," Hessel said.

Later, Hessel said he was talking with another friendly policeman, saying that American police would not behave in such a way because it would be regarded as "Gestapo behavior."

A younger policeman shouted "are you calling us Gestapo?" and started hitting and kicking me," Hessel said.

Hessel was followed to the stand by Farmer, whose story was similar to Hessel's. He said he was not drunk.

"I had had something to drink and was happy—in a mood to sing," he said.

Wanted to Fight
What happened, he said, was that he saw a crowd at the railway station and saw an American he knew and "it looked like he wanted to fight."

"I tried to stop him and then I was grabbed. Farmer said he was taken to the police station near the railway station and was handcuffed, despite his arm in a cast.

"I was beaten both in and outside the station, mostly inside," Farmer said. He admitted he traded insults with the police.

"They told me to go home and made other anti-American remarks," he said. "The foul language was exchanged by both parties. I was very angry."

More Cold Due As Southwest Stays Frozen

Temperatures in blizzard area will hit zero

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperatures as low as zero were expected today in large areas of the nation's Southwest where unusual back-to-back blizzards have paralyzed entire communities and marooned thousands of travelers for nearly a week.

The new cold air mass, with snow-whipping winds, complicated attempts to clear highways as much as 30 inches of snow and to get supplies to isolated towns. Temperatures should rise sharply during the day, however, the Weather Bureau said.

Three counties in New Mexico were declared emergency areas—San Miguel, Union and Quay counties—and about 100 National Guardsmen worked with M2 tanks to take ranch families to town.

Damage Light

Unless the new storm keeps temperatures below 20 degrees the economic damage was expected to be light.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said the overall effect of moisture in long-parched areas greatly offset any immediate damages.

The biggest losses so far come from cattle being slaughtered when they wandered onto railroad tracks. Other livestock were being taken feed in six-wheel drive trucks and were expected to survive the weather unless the freeze intensified.

10 Dead

At least 10 persons were known dead, five in Texas and five in New Mexico. Helicopters from Cannon Air Force Base scoured the countryside for families who needed help and other possible victims.

Skies cleared Thursday night over New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle, after the new blizzard's blast of snow ended in mid-afternoon.

The only road still reported closed in the two states was U.S. 66 from northeast of Amarillo at White Deer, Tex., to the Oklahoma border.

Activity on highways was still at the crawling stage, however, as blowing snow drifts kept the icy roads dangerously narrow. One-lane traffic only was permitted in some areas.

Key Stocks Move Upward

Averages Flirt With New High; Trading Remains Moderate

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market flirted with new historic highs early this afternoon as selected blue chips again moved the averages higher. Trading was moderate.

The advance was an irregular one.

Outstanding among the blue chips was Du Pont, up about 10 points.

No particular strong group leadership was displayed although the trend was generally higher among chemicals, mail order-retails, airlines, rails and office equipments.

Several of the recently declining "glamour" stocks made moderate recoveries. Cigarette stocks declined as a sharp drop-off in cigarette tax receipts was reported among state governments.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 293.0 with industrials up 2.4, rails up .3 and utilities up .1. If the gain were to be held by the close, the recent all-time high would be bettered.

The Dow Jones industrial average also could make a new closing peak if it held its gain of 5.13 which put the indicator at 791.54 at noon.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were narrow; mixed U.S. government bonds were unchanged. Trading was light.

1 Hospitalized In Garage Fire In Kaukauna

Damage Set at $20,000; Welding Tank May be Cause

KAUKAUNA — One man was hospitalized as a result of a $20,000 garage fire at the Harland J. Schub home, route 2, Kaukauna, about 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

George Huss, 117 Crooks Ave., Kaukauna, who had been working in the garage at the time of the fire, was released today from Kaukauna Community Hospital where he was treated for shock.

Authorities said a leak in an acetylene tank line may have started the blaze which destroyed a 29 by 44-foot garage, two 1963 model truck cabs, and more than $2,000 worth of garage equipment.

Exhaust Water

Volunteers from the Town of Wrightstown fire department answered the call and after exhausting their water supply in an effort to quell the blaze, the Town of Vandenberg department, housed at the Little Chute fire station, was called to the scene.

Vandenberg firemen concentrated on wetting down the New Orleans, clouded house and adjacent buildings to prevent the fire from spreading. The garage and contents were a total loss. The fire started when Huss attempted to light the acetylene torch, and flames shot through the building. Huss, 48, and another worker, Francis De Groot, fled the burning building. The Little Chute police accompanied the Vandenberg truck Salt Lk. City, clouded to the scene and took Huss to San Diego, clouded the Kaukauna Community Hos- San Fran., clouded pital where he was admitted and Seattle, clouded treated for shock. Huss is in the Tampa, clouded feed and grain business, and Washington, clouded 51 said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Wesley Peters, general sales manager, reported sales have shown a marked improvement both over a year ago and over 1962, although the same experience has been noted throughout the country. He predicted FWD was going to experience increases even above the economic upswing.

Peters credited changes in the dealer organization and new accounts and products as sources for the improved business.

Discuss Expansion Plan For Fox Valley Lutheran

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 attached workroom, office, file room and two storage rooms. The wing would extend to the east with a tiered science lecture room with seating for 80 students, connected to a future biology laboratory which will be used temporarily as a regular classroom for 66 students; three classrooms for 45, 35 and 30 students each; a two-room business education suite, restrooms and a janitor's room. A plant and animal room, to be used for biological study, will be located beneath the science lecture room.

Business Suite
The business suite would have a 36-student typing room, connected with a bookkeeping room equipped for 20 students. Bookkeeping equipment will include five dictaphones and eight adding machines. The former business room will be used as a regular classroom.

The second proposed addition, to the east of the gymnasium, would have a music suite and a student publications area on the upper floor. The music suite would include a large band and choir room to accommodate 80 to 90 choristers or 60 to 65 band members; three practice rooms; music storage rooms and an office.

Rooms for the student newspaper and the yearbook, the cafeteria and bookstore and restrooms would be located to the north of the music suite.

Cafeteria for 300
The ground floor of this addition would have a cafeteria with seating for 300, a kitchen and a locker room. The cafeteria will be beneath the gymnasium, so the academic area will not be affected by noon hour noise. The former boys' locker room will be converted into a physical education locker room, and an area with 130 lockers for use by football, basketball and track teams will be east of this.

The present cafeteria, kitchen and canteen area near the main entrance would be remodeled as part of the proposed building program. The cafeteria and kitchen will be converted into a faculty room, a home economics room and a kitchen with four units for student cooks. The canteen and part of the cafeteria will be remodeled as a guidance center with an office, three interview rooms and a waiting room.

Pastor Ploetz said the proposed building program would mean continuation of the present four-year fund drive beyond the 1965 termination date. It would take a total of about 10 years to eliminate the entire debt, although an accelerated drive could cut this by two or three years, he said.

May Hike Goal
The federation started its $425,000 debt retirement fund drive in 1961. An expansion fund drive in 1961, Ore., and George Farmer, Seattle, Wash. — were tried in an Austrian court after a clash with police here early yesterday. Marolt was found guilty of attacking police and received a three month jail sentence, which was suspended. He was placed on probation for three years.

Farmer was found guilty of attacking police and insulting them and was sentenced to 3½ months, which also was suspended. He also drew a three year probation.

Hessel was acquitted of all charges which the police had lodged against him.

1 County Uses Catered Food For Prisoners

Others Have Found System Faulty for Serving Jail Meals

One county in Wisconsin now caters food to its jail prisoners, a state department of public welfare jail inspector said today, and other counties have tried it and found it to be faulty.

Vernon Verhulst, a jail inspector, told county supervisors and Alvin Woehler, county business administrator, that catering programs are not satisfactory because they are hard to control.

Woehler and supervisors, however, stated that a study by an appropriate committee should be undertaken to determine if the present system of feeding prisoners is adequate. The discussion came during a special meeting of the county's insurance and property committee.

Study Suggested

Last month Supv. Glenn Pelton (Appleton 12) suggested to the executive committee that such a study be undertaken. Pelton is a member of the courts and administration committee, which oversees the sheriff's department.

Woehler said such a study should establish one of three things: whether catering is feasible, whether a new program should be started which would give control of the feeding system to the county, or whether the sheriff should administer the feeding of prisoners.

Woehler said no discussion should be made until the study has been completed and facts made clear.

Supv. Sylvester Esler (Appleton 18) said the sheriff should not be saddled with the function of restaurant keeper and that the kitchen function in the county jail should be turned over to some other party or agency.

Under present conditions, the sheriff charges each prisoner for the food eaten in the jail. The sheriff then purchases the food and is allowed to keep profits made from the transaction.

Kohler to Organize Political Committee In Race for Mayor

MENASHA—Earl L. Kohler, candidate for mayor in Menasha, today announced plans for a committee to help in gaining support for his campaign.

Kohler said earlier this year he would not utilize the services of a committee, but rather would seek election from the citizenry as a whole.

Kohler said this morning he has changed his mind and will form a committee. He said it will consist of persons who are "interested in economy and progress." He asked that anyone interested in serving on the committee contact him during the weekend.

No chairman has been selected for the committee.

Village PTA to Hear Of School Drop-Outs

KIMBERLY — Warren Jarvis and James Haas, guidance counselors in the public school system, will discuss "The Problems of the School Drop-Out" at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Junior High School.

Lunch and refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Lt. Col. Crowell

Salvation Army State Officer to Talk in Appleton

Lt. Col. Harold Crowell, Salvation Army commander of operations in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, will speak Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Appleton Salvation Army.

The dinner meeting will be at the Appleton citadel, 130 E. North St. Election of new directors and officers also is scheduled.

Crowell formerly served as the army's secretary for Wisconsin and Minnesota, at territorial headquarters in charge of army properties in 11 states and as divisional commander in the Chicago area.

County Will Study Labor Agreement

The draft submitted Thursday will have to be enlarged to include clarification of the division of authority between the county board and the board of trustees, a dues checkoff stipulation which would require that union dues be taken from the employees' checks by the payroll clerk, a definite rest break stipulation for female employees, and a stipulation allowing full pay for employees who participate in union-management discussions during working hours, Swanson said.

Hospital employees were willing to support a proposed wage classification and efficiency study. Swanson said and will hold off discussion of new wage rates and classification until the study is completed. Hospital employees received a 3 per cent wage hike at the beginning of the year along with other county employees.

Among the county employee policies is the stipulation in the draft which would allow female employees maternity leave. The county's employee policy forbids maternity leave and requires that female employees quit their jobs when they are seven months pregnant.

Although the committee did not indicate when it planned to continue talks with the local Swanson and Frailing said they felt progress was being made in the acceptance of the labor draft. Schreiter said the committee would contact the union when it felt that the talks meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association should be continued. He said the committee planned to study the proposed draft before meeting again with union representatives.

"This jamboree is very carefully planned," Scout Executive F. Dwight Donelson explained. "Scouts who are participating, and their parents, will receive detailed information in ample time to complete their arrangements."

Leaders for the national jamboree from the Valley Council selected for their leadership, administrative and camping abilities, are Ed Bloch and James Johnson, Neenah, and Tom Reed, Wittenberg. All are experienced scoutmasters.

Opportunities for registering scouts to participate in the jamboree were made available to leaders in April and July of 1963 by James Schroeder, promotion chairman. ## Northern Part of State Offers Fine Skiing Conditions

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Far northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan still provide skiers with an ample supply of natural snow.

Elsewhere in Wisconsin, the state's long stretch of mid weather has generally cleared the landscape of snow. A trace of snow fell throughout Wisconsin Friday night but it was little help to skiers.

The weekend outlook calls for colder weather with "occasional snow shower activity."

At mid-morning Friday, the Superior region had 10 inches of snow, Park Falls 8 inches, Wausau 2 and Eau Claire 1. Only traces were reported at all other Weather Bureau reporting stations around the state.

Houghton, Mich., however, had 15 inches and Marquette 13

Reynolds Says

Wisconsin Negro Is Denied Many Rights

State Law Not Against Minority, But Discrimination Is Practiced In Voting, Learning and Working

RIVER FALLS (AP) — Gov. John W. Reynolds said Thursday night that the Negro in Wisconsin "is denied an equal opportunity to vote, to learn, to work, to relax and to live."

He told an opening meeting of a two-day Grassroots Political Conference that while Wisconsin law does not discriminate against the Negro in voting, education, jobs or public accommodations, there is discrimination "by practice."

Warren Knowles, the Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, said the basic problems of the state's non-white citizens are economic and educational.

Skill Training
Knowles told the conference at River Falls State College that "the single most effective contribution state government can make is by assisting in a program of skill training and vocational education" that will enable non-whites to hold better jobs.

Lloyd Barbee of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, joined in a panel discussion and said that Negroes are "ghettoized" in the southern part of the state. He said that the rest of the state soon will be forced to deal with Negroes.

Reynolds said that in confronting the issues of discrimination, an element of fear arises "when we discuss the claim of minorities to decent housing and

'Thriller' Suspected in Sniper Murder

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Police say a thriller may have been the sniper who murdered a newlywed couple as they strolled down a scenic stretch of beach.

Dying Navy Radioman 3 C. Johnny Ray Swindle, 19, and his slain bride of three weeks, Joyce, 19, both of Jasper, Ala., were found by a passerby on Wednesday night.

"There is absolutely no indication of motive, unless the missing wallet indicates robbery," said Police Capt. Ed De Bolt. "There is no triangle in the background of the two young people, nothing which would lead us to their killing."

Fired From Ledge
Said Lt. William Schenck: "It's entirely possible they were killed by someone they never knew—someone whose only motive was excitement."

On the ledge of a retaining wall, police found a box of Valentine candy. Investigators assume the Swindles bought the candy while on their stroll. But, they said, it could have been left behind as a deranged killer's calling card.

Police said the gunman perched on a ledge on a cliff overlooking the Pacific Ocean. The moonlight night concealed him and the surf's roar muffled his shots.

The sniper fired five shots from the cliff ledge. Then he moved in to fire two more in a kind of coup de grace, police said.

Wheat Exports Bogging Down

Maritime Union Chief Charges U.S. Ships Overlooked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The export of about $70-million worth of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union faces the threat of being bogged down on American docks by a longshoremen's boycott.

President Thomas W. Gleason, of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, made the threat at a frequently stormy Maritime Administration hearing.

Foreign Ships
Charging that foreign-flag vessels that had been "dealing with the enemy" were being given precedence over U.S. ships in the wheat deal, Gleason said: "Let the Russians go to hell. Let them starve. Tell them to take it the way we send it, or don't send it at all."

Gleason said Thursday he would recommend to the union's Executive Council that the 55,000 longshoremen refuse to load any of the wheat being exported by Continental Grain Co. unless more U.S. ships are used.

Waiver Sought
Acting Maritime Administrator Robert E. Giles told Gleason: "What you are saying is that you and your Executive Council should make foreign policy instead of the President."

The hearing was held to consider Continental's application for a waiver permitting shipment of less than 50 per cent Advisory Committee says the of the nearly 1 million tons of wheat in U.S. vessels.

Continental contended that enough U.S. ships are available for February and March shipment under federal regulations 20 hours, added Dr. Ralph Ginz, requiring that at least 50 per cent move in American ships if available.

Favorable Signs Seen For Broadcast Control

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Howard Dahl, WKBT and publisher of Broadcasters Magazine said Thursday night that there are favorable signs for the broadcasting industry in the battle over government control of programs.

Sol Taitshoff of Washington told the concluding banquet session of the Wisconsin Broadcasters Association convention that the industry had won a round but the battle is still going on.

Broadcasters should realize strength, he said, because they have been "patsys" for the reformers.

No Backdown
There has been no definite backdown by the Federal Communications Commission majority yet, Taitshoff said, despite a recent decision in which the FCC said it was not its function to pass on individual programs.

Bruce Wallace of WTMJ and WTMJ-TV, Milwaukee, was re-elected president of the association for a second term. Bernie Strachota of WRIT, Milwaukee, was elected vice president for radio.

Goldwater Is GOP's Leading Primary Hope

Rockefeller Shows Slight Gain Since Last Poll by AP

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is still considered by Republican leaders in New Hampshire as the front-runner in the presidential primary, a third Associated Press survey of the state's county executive committee members showed today.

But Goldwater, despite recent hard campaigning, has not improved his position since December, the new poll indicated.

His chief rival, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, showed a slight gain since the previous poll, taken last December.

Nearly half the county leaders participating in the poll said they are undecided as to which probable Republican presidential nominee at the convention next July.

Of New Hampshire's 33 county committee members, 25 responded to the questionnaire. It asked two questions: "Whom do you consider the strongest GOP candidate against President Johnson now?" and "Who will be nominated in July?"

The responses were:
Strongest Candidate
Goldwater—14
Rockefeller—3
Goldwater - Rockefeller even—2

Who Will Be Nominated?
Goldwater—7
Nixon—3

Big Cuts Seen in U.S. Work Week

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The chairman of the National Manpower Advisory Committee says the 32-hour work week is only 10 years and "four jumps" in the planned for Saturday night.

Verona Police Chief Albert Frazier said he received an anonymous tip that the fight was planned in a Verona gravel pit. Frazier said the fight was planned in retaliation for a beating five Verona youths received Feb. 1 in a fight that took place in a closed amusement park area west of Madison.

Authorities said they confiscated switchblade knives, a club and lengths of rubber hose. They said the early fight and plans for another stemmed from a Verona boy dating a Madison high school girl.

A 15-year-old Madison West High School boy was severely cut on the arm with a hunting knife Monday, allegedly inflicted by a classmate, 16. Police said the incident followed an argument over a West High girl.

Other speakers at the one-day meeting included an official of the National Association of Broadcasters who told WBA members that "the climate has changed in Washington" for the broadcasting industry.

2 Salesmen Trapped in Mountains

Stumbled in Snow 10 Miles; Found Prospector's Shack

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — One of two frostbitten encyclopedia salesmen who spent 15 days trapped in a car in the snow-covered Sierra, summed it up this way:

"Man, this was the experience I'll never forget!"

Tom Penland, a prospector who fed them after they stumbled 10 miles through hip-deep snow, said:

"They were kinda bedraggled looking, so I invited them in and gave them something to eat. They complained about sore feet and told me they had walked part of the way in the snow in their stocking feet."

Frost Bite
Paul Froelich, 44, Pleasant Hill, Calif., and James Ginrich, 22, Sudbury, Ontario, survived with nothing worse than the frost bite and malnutrition.

They staggered to Penland's cabin door Tuesday night. They were rescued Thursday by a sheriff's constable after Mrs. Froelich filed a missing person report.

Neither man was hospitalized. Froelich and Ginrich ran into trouble Jan. 21 when their car became stuck in snow and a howling blizzard isolated them.

"The car had nothing in it but some books, my top coat, and some advertising material," Froelich, the father of two children, said.

"We managed to get through the freezing nights by wrapping the advertising stuff around us."

Fuel Depleted
They used the car's heater until the auto ran out of gasoline. They survived on melted snow alone.

"We sure got hungry," Froelich said. "We passed the time reading our own material — books — and Jim made some playing cards out of some of the advertising material."

After they had hiked to Penland's cabin, they were told that they had been within two miles of a forest service station.

And, it is always stocked with food.

Oswald's Mother Next Commission Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "kept at their home prior to the assassination." He bought it by mail in March.

Disclosed that Oswald used the name "A. Hidell" in New Orleans last summer. That was the name under which the Italian-made carbine was purchased from a Chicago mail-order house.

Told the commission that "while she did not like to believe her husband killed President Kennedy, the facts presented to her since the assassination would not permit her to reach any other conclusion."

"Filled in and elaborated on" much information she previously had given in interviews—informed that the sharpshooter Oswald, discharged from the Marines as "undesirable," was the sole and unaided perpetrator of the tragedy.

Questioned on whether the slender widow might have had prior knowledge of Oswald's plans, Warren said the marathon testimony, taken through an interpreter, indicated that: "She had no knowledge of the assassination before it happened — none whatsoever."

Second Witness
Chief Justice Earl Warren said she will be the second witness in the closed assassination hearings.

He made the announcement after telling newsmen that Marina, 22—whom he called "a very brave little woman"—had identified the rifle found in the sniper's hideaway in the Dallas building where Oswald worked.

Soil Nutrients
Test Conducted
At Brillion High

Tests Show Land
Without Additives
Outproduced Others

BRILLION — Micronutrients are apparently unnecessary for successful corn crops, tests conducted by the Brillion High School vocational agriculture department indicate.

Results, which the school received recently, showed that corn land with no micronutrients added, outproduced soil containing the nutrients.

One farm had five plots. The first, with no micronutrients, averaged 146 bushels per acre, another, with zinc, boron and manganese added, averaged 119 bushels. The plot with zinc and boron added produced an average of 135 bushels an acre. Zinc and manganese were added to a fourth plot and it averaged 128 bushels per acre while the boron and manganese fortified plot turned out 134 bushels.

Not Needed

Micronutrients are not needed, the report indicated.

A similar test was conducted on another farm where five plots averaged 126 bushels from an average of 2,000 plants per acre. However, a zinc deficiency in the soil made the test results inconclusive.

The vocational agriculture classes are planning to carry out the program again next year. It cooperates with the University of Wisconsin in the program.

State Agriculture Head to Speak
At Jaycee 'Young Farmer' Banquet

State Department of Agriculture Director D. N. McDowell will be toured by the judges Saturday to determine the winners. He will be featured speaker at the banquet.

The OYF selection process began months ago in the Jaycee locals throughout the state. Each unit organized area contests and in the process screened the qualifications of many leading young farmers before setting on the 35 local winners. Awaiting the state winner will be the OYF banquet Feb. 15 at the Conway Hotel here.

Highlight of the event will be the announcement of the young farmer selected as the state's most outstanding. Candidates for the honor, between the ages of 21 and 35, are judged on their contributions to agriculture, conservation programs and interest in and service to their respective communities.

Jerry Long, Appleton Jaycee who is serving as state OYF chairman, said plans are well underway.

Judges Willis D. Freitag, assistant general manager of the Wisconsin State Fair; Walter Long, rural Appleton farmer and real estate broker, and Lyman McKee, prominent Madison area farmer, met Sunday with Long.

Trim List

Their first task was to trim the list of 35 qualified OYF candidates, one representing each of the state Jaycee locals, to 19. The 19 finalists and their wives will be banquet guests of the event's co-sponsor, Wisconsin LP Gas Co.

The judges have since reduced the number of finalists to three. Their names have not been released. Finalists' farms

Seed Dealers Seek Tighter Controls
With Permit LawReview Proposed Changes in Statutes; Re-Elect President

The state's seed dealers, processors and growers, at their annual meeting Monday at the Conway Hotel here, went on to review proposed changes in labeling requirements in labeling by type record favoring a blanket seed and variety is being sought but the stricter demands were not completely accepted by the dealers.

They asked that all persons selling seed or grains for seed purposes be required to have a permit from the State Department of Agriculture. Under the existing statutes permits are required only of the major dealer-processors.

The recommended statute revision, the group felt, would provide for stiffer control over seed dealers and could stem the flow of low-quality seeds being sold in the state by out-of-state dealers.

Changes Outlined

No fee was stipulated in the resolution. Most members felt a floating fee scale could be established, dependent in part on the respective dealer's volume.

Last year the fee was $1 but this year's permits will cost $10.

Proposed changes in the Wisconsin Seed Law were outlined by Dwight Forsythe, a department of agriculture representative.

Royalties

'Breeder's Rights' was the topic of Dr. C. D. Smith. He suggested that there could eventually be statutes to protect the seed grower who develops an entirely new strain. This protection might be in the form of a royalty but legislative planners were proceeding cautiously, he implied.

He cited the royalties paid by importers for French alfalfa as an example.

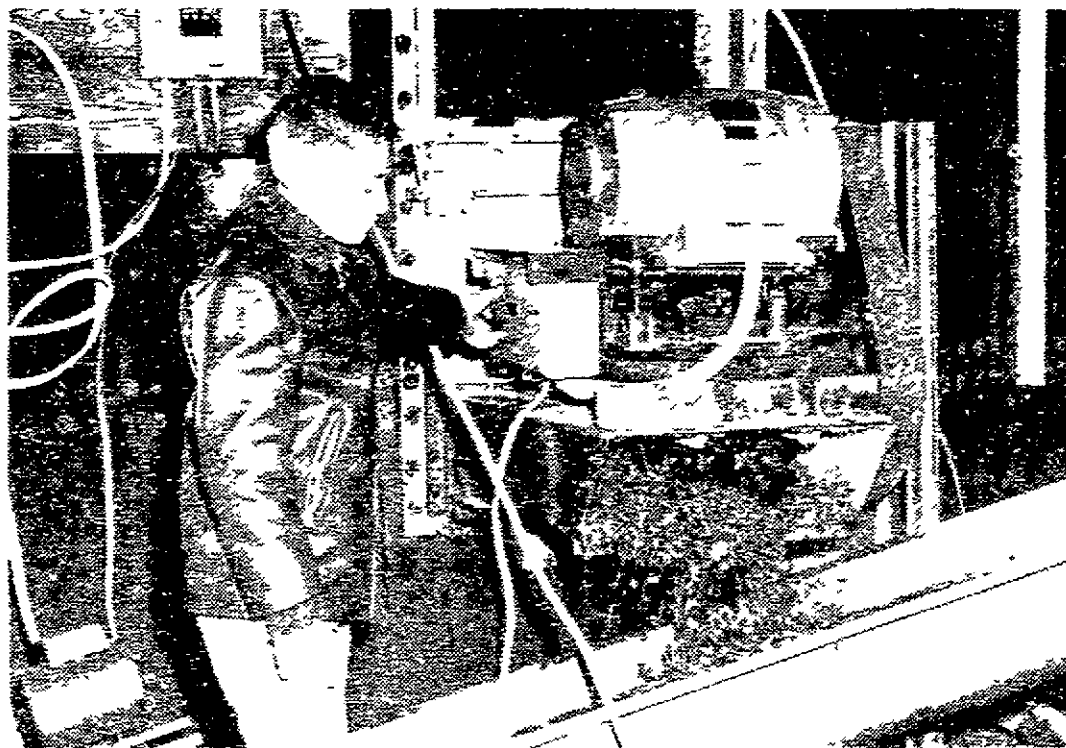

Seed terms and terminology were explained by Elwood Brickbauer, Leland Mulder, state Soil Conservation and Stabilization Service chairman, reviewed the 1964 feed grain program.

John Struck, Oregon, was re-elected president of the seed growers association and W. J. Jung, Randolph, is secretary-treasurer.

Economists Outline Solutions to Dairy Farm Production Controls

A chronic problem of low income alternatives that are receiving considerable attention has existed for more than a decade. The economists are Truman Dairy leaders, including con-Graf, University of Wisconsin; gressmen, have been casting Glynn McBride, Michigan State; around for alternatives to the University; and Robert Story, current government dairy pro-Cornell. Robert Jacobson, U.S. Department of Agriculture served as consultant to the group. Their thoughts are included in a publication, titled "An Investigation of the Dairy Problem and Analysis of Selected Program Alternatives."

The six types of alternative government dairy programs analyzed by the economists are:

(1) Continuation or modification of the present purchase and storage program.

(2) Mandatory national supply management program.

(4) Class I base program in federal milk order markets.

(5) Composite of Class I base and voluntary supply adjustment program.

(6) Direct payment butterfat subsidy program.

The economists estimate the effect of each of the government dairy programs on such factors as production, marketings, commercial demand, surpluses, price support costs and gross and net dairy farm income. Their estimates of price support costs to the government and gross income to dairy farmers for some of the government programs analyzed are as follows:

Gross Dairy Net Cost	Income	Dairy
(In Millions)	Support
4850	455
4940	470
4908	235
4866	660
4830	420
4760	400
4750	576

TYPE OF GOVERNMENT PROGRAM

Present purchase & storage program (75% of parity)
Voluntary supply adjustment program with $2.00 reduction payment and $ .20 marketing
Mandatory supply management program
Direct payment butterfat subsidy program
Federal order Class I base program
Voluntary Supply adjustment program with a $2.00 reduction-retirement payments
Composite Class I base and voluntary supply adjustment program

The analysis indicates that some government programs could increase gross dairy farm income with lower government support costs, while others would increase farm income but only at the expense of higher government support costs.

Most Effective

The mandatory supply management program appears to offer the most effective means of increasing incomes to dairy farmers, while reducing price support costs by significant amounts. Under this program government costs could be reduced $120 million and producers gross income increased $50 million.

The economists say a mandatory supply program would tend to freeze existing patterns of resource use on dairy farms unless the program permitted transfer of quotas. Unlimited transfer of quotas would favor larger farms, which do not represent a serious income problem to the nation now. Because of these reasons, and various restrictions associated with this type of program it has not gained acceptance either with congressional committees or milk producers and their organizations.

Voluntary supply adjustment programs could result in either increases or decreases in gross farm incomes depending on the details of these programs. The same is true for government costs under such programs. Government costs of obtaining producer participation in such programs would likely offset much of the savings in buying products. The current problems of storage and disposition could be reduced.

Slow Expansion

The economists say the Federal Order Class I base plan would tend to slow the expansion of milk supplies in markets where adopted, but would not result in a significant reduction in the national supply of milk. Neither would they substantially effect either government price support costs, or national gross dairy farm income. Blend prices to farmers could increase in markets which adopt this program, because of a reduction in Surplus Supplies. Nationwide participation is likely to be limited unless this program provides for higher fluid milk prices than would otherwise occur. This is not called for in the proposed Class I base program.

The economists indicate that a butterfat subsidy program would significantly increase commercial sales of milk fat, and thereby curtail government purchases of dairy products. The subsidy to maintain producer incomes would more than offset savings in product acquisition costs. In the program analyzed, net costs to the government would be approximately $205 million more than with the current program. Meanwhile gross dairy farm income would increase only $10 million. Consumers would benefit from lower retail product prices.

The economists conclude that although much difference of opinion exists with respect to alternative government programs, there is little question that some type of national government dairy program is likely to be continued. Complete elimination of the dairy support-purchase program would reduce in gross dairy farm income about $700 million the first year, which is almost twice the saving in government costs. This loss in gross income is equivalent to about two-thirds of the net income that dairy farmers would receive if the current program continued. This sharp a drop in income would likely cause an over-adjustment of supplies.

Corn Crop Threatened By Subnormal Rainfall

UW Specialists Advise Farmers to Control
Crop Rotations as Low Moisture Curb

MADISON (AP)—Chances for "were hardest hit," State Climatologist Marvin Burley noted a normal corn crop in Wisconsin in 1964 are not good and; "There's nothing to indicate about the only thing a farmer how we'll fare this year and can do about it is to control; there have been expressions of crop rotations.

The advice came today from soil moisture is so low that corn Art Peterson, University of Wisconsin soil specialist, "won't even germinate," he added.

Since early 1962, Peterson said, Wisconsin has been short-rain in the last two years should have been 61 inches but in some areas it was less than 40 inches.

"Subsoil reserves of water are so low that it will take above normal rainfall in April and May to replenish them," Peterson said. "Or if rainfall during April and May is normal, above average rainfall will be needed in June and July to allow good corn growth."

Normal Rainfall "last fall the best corn yields Normal rainfall for April and May is 3 inches and 3½ inches, respectively, a figure Wisconsin Peterson conceded that erosion has not approached the last two years when repeating with corn. This prompted him to urge wheel-rain the last two years but the track planting and minimum southern and northeastern areas tillage.

Surplus Corn Sales Less Than Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government sales of corn from its surplus stocks are running slightly less than half the volume of a year ago.

The Agriculture Department reported today that sales from Oct. 1, the beginning of the 1963 crop marketing year, to Jan. 3 totaled 66 million bushels compared with 149 million in the like period a year ago.

A major reason for the decline in government sales has been the availability of privately-owned feed grains at prices in line with or below the government's minimum sales price.

Feeders Offer Slim Chance of Profit in '64

Increased Beef Supplies Cause Price Decline

Careful feedlot management and timely marketing will be necessary to make feedlots in 1964, according to Vern Schneider and Dick Vilstrup, University of Wisconsin livestock marketing specialists.

Fed cattle prices have dropped the past two months. Increased beef supplies have brought sharp changes since the high cattle prices of 1962.

On Jan. 1, 1963 there were 51 per cent more cattle on feed than in 1958. Cattle feeders have been marketing finished cattle with big losses because of the high feeder cattle costs in 1962. The fed cattle market this fall witnessed very narrow price spreads between slaughter grades of fed cattle.

Cattle on farms and ranches Jan. 1, were close to 107 million head—up three per cent from a year earlier. Since the number of cattle kept for milk production is expected to decrease by about three per cent, the gain in beef cattle numbers may be up as much as five per cent, Vilstrup says.

A continued optimistic long-run outlook for the demand for beef will likely encourage further expansion. A build-up of two to three per cent is in prospect for the coming year.

Cattle Slaughter

Even with further expansion in cattle herd numbers, cattle slaughter numbers will increase again in 1964. Prospects are for a commercial cattle slaughter this year three to four per cent higher than the 27.3 million head in 1963, say the marketing specialists.

With price problems again confronting the beef producer in 1964, individual growers will have to practice good management and market cattle wisely. The marketing specialists make the following suggestions:

Market cattle above 1,100 lbs. that are not gaining efficiently. Market all cattle orderly and when they are ready for grade. Fattening cattle above conformation grade can be costly during a slump in cattle prices. With lighter cattle, lengthen the feeding period by not pushing cattle on feed. Compare feed costs of various feeding programs and shift to the most economical rations.

Feedlot cattle can be replaced with feeders moderately cheaper than a year ago. Young cattle may provide a good alternative use of feed.

39-Inch Frost Depth Reported at Waupaca

Mild temperatures throughout the state since Jan. 14 has reduced snow cover and enabled frost to penetrate deeper into the soil.

Waupaca has one of the deepest frost penetrations in the area, 39 inches. Marinette and Coleman report 40 inches and Shawano listed 33 inches.

2 Demonstrations at Northport 4-H Meeting

Potato Growers Face Losses Caused by Rotting in Storage

MADISON — Potato growers and handlers face losses this winter due to a handling and storage rot brought on by unusually warm weather during last fall's potato harvest.

The rot—called potato "leak"—turns most of the potato flesh pinkish-brown to gray, says Earl Wade, University of Wisconsin plant disease specialist. It leaves only a narrow zone of healthy material next to the potato skin. The entire flesh remains firm, but if the diseased potato is squeezed it will give off a clear or yellowish watery liquid.

When the disease reaches advanced stages, potatoes may become hollow shells and spots of rot may appear on the surface around cuts and bruises. Secondary bacterial soft rot often follows.

meeting by Linda Roloff and Mary Flease. The club had a skating party at Flease park. Its next meeting will be Feb. 18.

during harvest to protect potatoes from weather or mechanical damage. Move potatoes to storage quickly after harvest to avoid windburn and sunscald. Do not harvest potatoes when air and soil temperatures are above normal.

You should use rubber covered digger and conveyor chains. Ample padding where potatoes are dropping more than a few inches, and operating diggers and harvesters at efficiently slow speeds are other aides that Wade advises.

Soil fungi causing potato "leak" often enter through cuts, wounds, or bruises. But it can also develop in healthy looking potatoes that have no skin breaks, Wade says.

Warm Conditions

The disease is brought on by warm conditions which favor the growth of soil fungi organisms. High soil moisture also favors the disease.

There is little evidence infection spreads from diseased to healthy potatoes during handling or storage. However, the rot may appear to spread during storage because of a watery discharge from affected potatoes that collapse under pressure.

After "leak" starts in stored potatoes, forced air circulation and rapid bin grade out are about the only remedies, Wade says.

To help reduce potato "leak" losses, take all possible steps

Governor's Conference On 'Food for Peace' Scheduled at Madison

Gov. John W. Reynolds announced Saturday a Governor's Conference on Food for Peace will be held Feb. 14 at the Wisconsin Center in Madison.

Richard Reuter, of Washington, D. C., Director of Food for Peace, will lead the list of speakers for the one-day affair. Other speakers will include Roland R. Renne, an assistant secretary of agriculture, and H. J. Waters, assistant administrator for material resources for the Agency for International Development.

Theme for the conference will be "Food for Peace—A Challenge and an Opportunity for Wisconsin."

Invitations to the conference are being mailed to farm leaders, women's groups, food industry executives and other groups throughout the state.

The New Flour Mill at Seymour Cooperative Exchange is expected to be completed early this year. It is being built to replace a mill constructed in 1937. The $125,000 operation is expected to greatly expand production. (Duffy Photo)

$125,000 Construction Project Launched by Seymour Cooperative

Structure Will Include Bulk Fertilizer
Blending, Mill Facilities; New Grain Bank

SEYMOUR — A $125,000 plant addition is now under construction at the Seymour Co-op Exchange mill.

Plans for a bulk fertilizer blending plant were announced this week by Midland Cooperative. The 50 by 60-foot structure will be built on a three-acre site owned by the local exchange which distributes Midland products to area farmers. Ken Zeitler, Seymour Coop Exchange manager, said Midland would name a separate manager for its blending plant and that he (Zeitler) would continue as mill manager.

The new fertilizer plant will be constructed south of the new "L" shaped mill building adjacent to the Seymour exchange's railroad spur.

Zeitler said the present mill operation has had a $600,000 annual volume which could be boosted to about $1 million once the operation is shifted to the new location. The local exchange steadily increase its bulk feeds change started in Seymour in 1921 and in 1937 moved to its present location.

Increased Capacity

Overhead storage will be increased from 120 tons to 160 tons. The Hammermill motor will have 185 horsepower compared to 105 now. The sheller will produce 600 bushels per hour instead of the current 100 bushels and a five-ton mixer will replace the two-ton mixer. New machinery in the mill will cost about $40,000.

When the move to the new plant is made, the old building will be retained for storage. Old machinery will be removed and sold.

Other facilities will include a 50-foot, 50-ton scale located on a thru driveway. Truck delivery of bulk feeds will be increased. A truck hoist can unload automatically bulk grain transported to the mill by farm-

Office Space

Office space is being provided and plans allow for future expansion. Construction was started late last year by the Harold Peterson Co. Water-

Zeidler said the firm will steadily increase its bulk feeds according to the farmer's specifications. This arrangement is intended to eliminate the need for farmers to enter town weekly and wait to have grain ground and prepared. For example, a farmer could bring a five-ton load

FHA Loans in State Hit $14.7 Million in 1963

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration made or insured $14,783,380 in loans to Wisconsin farm and other rural families during 1963, Thomas R. Pattison, state director of the agency, has announced.

A total of 2,200 families used one or more of the agency's loan programs during the year.

FHA operates a broad program of supplementary credit for rural development in Wisconsin.

The agency makes loans for family farming operations, farm development, rural housing, community water system, soil and water conservation and development, recreation enterprises, and other purposes.

Repayments Up

Loans are made only to borrowers who cannot obtain credit from banks, production credit associations, and other conventional lenders.

Payments of principal and interest on Farmers Home Administration loans by borrowers in Wisconsin during the year totaled $9,297,419. This was a 36 percent increase over the amount repaid in 1962.

He gave the following breakdown of FHA's loan programs in Wisconsin for 1963.

A total of $5,924,540 went to 1,412 farmers to pay for equipment, feed, seed, livestock, for other farm and home operating needs, and to refinance chattel debts, carry out forestry purposes, and develop income-producing recreational enterprises.

Buy Farms

Farm ownership loans totaling about $6,360,900 were used by 456 farmers to enlarge, develop, and buy farms not larger than family size, and to refinance debts, carry out forestry purposes and develop income-producing recreational enterprises.

Rural housing loans estimated at $2,348,000 were made to 314 farmers and other rural residents.

School Superintendent Gives Talk On Sweden at Farm Institute

K. O. Rawson Tells Group in Clintonville Of Six-Week Tour to Study School System

CLINTONVILLE — An illustrious group of American students betrated talk on a six-week tour of Sweden was presented Wednesday in Clintonville Senior High School by K. O. Rawson, superintendent of Clintonville Joint School District No. 1.

Rawson spoke at the special program for the women who attended the annual Farm Institute sponsored by the Association of Commerce.

Rawson was one of 80 school superintendents who, through the "Meet Modern Sweden Committee," sponsored by the Experiment in International Living of Putney, Vermont, was selected by the American Association of School Administrators. He served as state president in 1961 of the Wisconsin Administrators group.

Lived With Families
The school men had the privilege of living with Swedish families, of meeting government officials, officers of labor organizations, and pupils, teachers, school board members, and members of the Ministry of Swedish Education. They saw libraries, hospitals, child care centers, and many industrial plants as well as dozens of schools in various parts of the country.

Rawson was a member of a sub-group which concentrated its study upon the schools of Jonkoping in Smaland in southern Sweden. He said he found Swedish people to be hospitable, the local host group most energetic in setting up a wide range of activities which would reveal Swedish life to the group.

The superintendents found the Swedish people to be warm, friendly and hospitable beyond all expectations.

He was impressed with their commitment to democratic ideals, their love of freedom, their faith in education as evidenced by their keen interest in schools and their sacrifices for the education of their children.

No Slums
Rawson felt Sweden could well be one of the cleanest nations on the earth. The absence of slums, the absence of litter along the railroads and on the streets, the cleanliness of restaurants and hotels, the white curtains in the windows, and the neatness of public conveyances confirmed this opinion.

The American educators found Swedish school buildings are maintained exceedingly well. The new buildings were very similar to the newest in the United States.

They were impressed with the excellent scientific equipment found in faculty laboratories. Food services were excellent. Art work and handicraft occupy a very important part in a student's training starting with the fourth grade.

Language Program
The educators from America were very much impressed with the quality of the foreign language program, understanding however, that Swedish students are motivated to a higher de-

Clintonville Cited for Milk Quality

State Health Board Recommends City be Given Honor Rating

CLINTONVILLE — The State Board of Health informed the city it was recommending the Public Health Service place Clintonville on the national honor roll of cities having a milk shed rating of 90 per cent or more.

The milk shed rating indicates the quality of milk produced, processing, inspection and sampling. The rating was based on a report by C. O. Widder, survey officer for the State Board of Health.

C. K. Luchterhand, chief of the State Milk Certification Unit, recommended Lester Kasson, city milk sanitarian. In a letter to Dr. Owen Larson, city health officer, Luchterhand wrote, "By maintaining the milk shed at a high level, your office has assured a high-quality grade."

Luchterhand said this indicated that all practical measures of public health protection had been taken with milk supplies coming into the city, from both local and distant sources.

Identification of Body In Detroit Closes One Oshkosh Murder Lead

Service Station Slaying Suspect Killed in Parking Lot Accident

OSHKOSH — Identification of a body of a man crushed in an accident Jan. 7 in Detroit back for the last six months has closed one possible lead in investigation of the murder of Wayne Pratt last June 12.

Sheriff Richard T. "Bud" Lowell said he was told Thursday morning a body being held in Detroit is definitely that of Raymond Frank Marsh, 38 Oshkosh. Marsh was missing since he walked away June 12 from a work party at Winnebago State Hospital where he was a patient. He had been committed there as an inebriate.

The same afternoon Marsh walked away, he took with him the wallet of another patient. At 6 p.m. that same evening Marsh cashed a worthless $25 check in a Neenah restaurant, using the name of Raymond Marsh on the check which was drawn on a Neenah bank.

Whereabouts Unknown
From there until he showed up at a Detroit hospital where he was taken after the accident, his whereabouts were unknown. He was crushed to death when hit by a truck in a Detroit parking lot Jan. 7. He died minutes after being admitted to the hospital.

On his body were two wallets, one that of Arden Ray Putzkie containing a fishing license and other identification cards. The other was that of a Dearborn, Mich. man.

Because of the two identities, the police checked both men, and Bancroft Corp. at $576. The both were found to still be stocks and securities were distributed evenly among Mrs. Zuelke and Mrs. Gallaher's three sisters.

Wednesday Sheriff Arthur Schley of Waushara County, who had checked Putzkie for the Detroit police, noticed a mention of Marsh in the Feb. 1 State Crime Laboratory flyer. The flyer contained pictures of Marsh taken when a patient at Central State Hospital, and information as to size, background and fingerprints.

Li Richard Guenther, Sheriff's department investigator, sent one of these flyers Wednesday afternoon to Detroit, after receiving the call from Schley.

Fingerprints Checked
Detroit police this morning checked the fingerprints and positively identified Marsh as the "John Doe" in their morgue.

Lowell said Lt. Guenther will

'Substantially Ahead'

FWD Reports Sales Up Over Last Year

CLINTONVILLE—Officials of FWD Corp. this week said sales are "substantially ahead of last year at this time" and the company has increased payroll by 56 employees since Jan. 1.

Frank Sinkewicz, director of industrial relations, said FWD has hired 70 men for its shop force during January and has had 14 terminations, making a net increase of 56. In addition, the current projection calls for an increase of 35 more in February and 42 in March, according to Sinkewicz.

All the jobs are in skills such as welders, sheet metal workers and machine operators, and most of the increase is due to the start of production on a government contract for the manufacture of "P2" crash trucks for the Air Force. Those hired are mostly former employees who have been recalled, Sinkewicz said.

Wesley Peters, general sales manager, reported sales have shown a marked improvement both over a year ago and over

Waupaca Driver Tries To Avoid Dog; Collides With Parked Vehicle

WAUPACA — A dog running in front of a car was a factor in a two car accident on S. Washington Street, Wednesday afternoon.

William G. Doerfler, 74, 307 W. Fulton St., told city police he was traveling north on S. Washington Street near the Lake Street intersection when a dog ran in front of his car. He swerved to the left to miss the dog and his vehicle collided with a car parked at the curb.

The car was owned by Ruth B. Peterson, 59, route 1, Scandinavia. The impact pushed the Peterson car into a utility pole, damaging the rear of the car. Doerfler escaped injury, but damages to the two cars were estimated by city police at more than $100.

BRILLION — The city will have a new doctor in late February.

Dr. Carroll L. Boyle, now a staff member of three Evansville, Ind., hospitals, announced this week he would move here to establish a medical practice in the new Brillion Clinic.

The community's new physician is a WWII veteran, having served as a radioman aboard the carrier "Midway" and the battleship "New Mexico."

3 Children
The Boyes have three children, Linda, 12; Jimmy, 10; and Patrick, 5.

Dr. Boyle is a member of the Poser County (Indiana) Medical Society, the Indiana Medical Association and the American Medical Association. He also serves as president of his home school district.

The physician will occupy the medical unit of the recently constructed Brillion Clinic at Lincoln and Wisconsin streets. Dr. David Kent and Dr. Michael Amato have been practicing in the clinic's dental section since Nov. 30.

The Brillion Chamber of Commerce began a search for two doctors early last summer, before construction of the clinic building began.

Widespread Campaign
The campaign, in the form of advertisements, letters, phone calls and personal contacts, produced some 80 inquiries. The group now plans to continue its search for another physician for the community.

The Brillion Housing Corp., which built the clinic, also built two homes for prospective doctors.

An open house to enable the public to meet Drs. Boyle, Kent

Employees Approve Efficiency Study

Outagamie Workers Will Wait To Learn Results of Survey

County employees have voiced approval of a county government efficiency study and said they plan no independent actions until the study is completed.

Previously, Outagamie County Courthouse Employees Association had indicated it may take work, recommendations for current wage hikes to the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board for a grievance hearing.

An association letter today notified members of the county's civil service and salary committee it favored the proposed study over the years.

Included in the study would be possible realignment and adjustment of current wages paid the county personnel, changes in county board no later than April, staff and management levels, and the possible introduction of automation.

The association urged the supervisors to put the firm's recommendations into effect once the study is completed.

Debate Proposal
Meanwhile, civil service and salary committee members today debated on how to present the J. L. Jacobs Co. proposal to other members of the county board. One committee member suggested the committee draft a resolution urging the study for approval at Tuesday's board meeting. It was decided, however, to hold off for at least another month.

A "selling campaign" on the merits of the survey is being planned by the civil service and salary committee, which will attempt to attend meetings of all 18 county board committees to explain the survey. A motion to begin the campaign was not voted on Thursday.

Committee members said the offer from the J. L. Jacobs Co. needed clarification and they planned to contact the firm to clear up details such as the scope of the survey and the final cost.

Conduct Survey
The company stated it could conduct the administrative survey for $9,000, or conduct two lesser surveys for costs of $4,500 and $4,000. The committee was vague as to the final cost of a complete survey.

The Chicago firm which has

Johnson Talks With Advisers On Cuba Crisis

Johnson would remain in effect for the rest of the time and that "we are ready to fight before accepting humiliation and blackmail." This was speculation. Castro might be setting the stage for a new demand the United States abandon its base on his island.

Gets Notes on Rostrum

Johnson, who interpolated his statement on Guantanamo into his New York speech after receiving notes on the rostrum from his aides, said the State Department had clearly established the fishing vessels were inside U.S. territorial waters.

"The captains of these boats reported this fact by radio to Havana just before the arrest came," he added.

The President said that since Castro allied himself with the Soviet Union the United States has known "that he would some day cut off the water to Guantanamo base. We have made such plans for such an eventuality."

Ready to Ship Water

Johnson, who spoke before Castro's pledge to supply an hour's flow of water a day, said there was enough water at the base to last for 12 days and "in addition to which water can be brought in and will be brought in indefinitely by ship from Port Everglades, Fla."

The Pentagon said the water ration for the 10,500 persons on the base had been reduced to one-fourth of normal. The Navy was already planning to haul in emergency supplies.

In the tense background were demands on Capitol Hill for strong countermeasures, including a naval blockade.

Goldwater's View

Campaigning in New Hampshire for the Republican presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona declared the United States should warn Castro to restore the water supply or "we will march out with a detachment of 1 Marines and turn it on ourselves."

Hearing of this, Prime Minister Castro said if the United States "tries to lay hands on our water sources we will fight to the last man and let Barry Goldwater know it. He should be in the first line of invaders."

Castro blamed the U.S. government for Goldwater's statement, saying it "encouraged him with its aggressive policy."

At his news conference, Castro charged the United States with aggression and "taking a cold war action" when it seized the fishing boats.

He accused American ships and planes of "repeatedly violating Cuban territorial waters and air space" and declared he "may ask the United Nations to intervene before things get more serious."

While in New York Johnson discussed the situation by telephone with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He told his advisers to prepare a "thorough set of recommendations" for dealing with the problem.

Johnson Briefed

When his helicopter touched down at the White House shortly before midnight, Johnson was met by McGeorge Bundy, special assistant on national security affairs, and Bromley Smith, executive secretary of the National Security Council, who briefed him on State Department discussions on the situation.

Chief Justice Earl Warren chats with Mrs. Marina Oswald Thursday as they ride an elevator to another closed-door interrogation of the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald by the presidential commission investigating the assassination of John Kennedy. while the U.S. has only $5 billion in gold reserves.

"If these foreign governments demand payment in gold, we will be in a worse position than in any previous era and it will make the Great Depression look like nothing. Our whole economic and military systems could collapse."

"Then," Miller warned, "Khrushchev will have been right. He will have buried us without firing a shot."

Party Unity

In calling for Republican candidate this fall, no matter who he is because he won't be a Galbraith, a Chester Bowles, a Walt Rostow, a "Soapy" Williams or an FDR Jr.

"Project a picture of a party with responsibility," he urged, "because the areas of agreement among us are much greater than the areas of disagreement."

"We as Republicans all believe in sound fiscal management, oppose buildup of central government, believe in state responsibility and a constitutional approach to government."

"Big Government"

"And we all agree," he said, "that no big government will give you anything that it hasn't already taken away."

"1968 may be too late," he warned the Outagamie GOP, "so 1964 may be the last real hope if the free world is to endure."

Civil Rights Fight Enters Last Stages

Miller said he had an agreement with the Democrats to finish the bill by Saturday night.

Would Shorten Debate

After Williams blocked an early session Hallett said "if members of the press who have motions are made to terminate the Republican party to debate, I'm going to support 'write off' the southern states them."

"If efforts are made to violate solemn agreements," replied Smith, referring to next any place off," he said, "and we Tuesday, 'some unpleasant things can happen.'"

The fight over debate-limiting came as the opposing forces of the GOP would capture a major battleground of major industrial states such as the 1964 civil rights act—the Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan-section dealing with equal job gain, New York and Missouri, opportunities for Negroes.

Miller also promised that the provision is one of two Republican president would remaining tough ones. The other solve the gold outflow and balance one would authorize the curtailment of federal funds for programs in which racial discrimination is practiced.

Old Typewriter Magic Carpet for Kewaunee Farm Wife, Her Family

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KEWAUNEE — A jolly, blue-eyed farm wife of this city's rural area suffers none of the insular, isolated feelings which come to many a farm lady who lives beyond a hooting, hollering distance from neighbors. This farm wife travels the world — with an $11 typewriter.

Mrs. Elmer Kinstetter, route 3, has such a passel of pen pals around the globe that just about once a month she makes a proxy round trip to South Rhodesia, Ireland, Japan, Korea, Ecuador, New Zealand, England, Sweden, Honolulu, Egypt, India and to the far flung crown colony of St. Helena, the famed island of exile for Napoleon.

It does indeed give the ginger-haired farm wife an international point of view, and so does it broaden the perspective of her thoughtful husband and their eight children who range in age from 16 to 2. The wall of their kitchen is decorated with a great, much-studied map of the world.

In letter exchanges with her distant friends, the main points of correspondence seldom consider the broad aspects of world politics or intranationalism.

"We just write chatter back and forth," said Mrs. Kinstetter with a smile. "We discuss families and farm methods. We know about each other's best friends. We write about who is teething and what kid went riding on the back of a porpoise. I think that's the best way to learn about a country."

The porpoise-riding wasn't a hum, either. When the jolly critters play around the wharves of Ecuador, some of the bolder boys jump from the dock and ride porpoise-back until the time comes for the inevitable leap or dive. So writes her friend, Mrs. Lucila de Engle, who lives in that South American republic.

The letters to the distant land 180 miles southeast of Ascension Island, the nearest land really come as news. Word of the Kennedy assassination probably has not yet reached there, Mrs. Kinstetter thinks. Her St. Helena friend and other islanders (population 5,000) had learned of astronaut Alan Shepard's space flight until three months after the deed when the Kinstetter letter brought the news.

All of the distant pen pals send photos, post cards, newspapers and magazines. Mrs. Kinstetter carefully preserves them in scrap books and sometimes loans them to the teachers at school to use as a supplemental educational device.

The turmoil of Egypt is suddenly evident in the letters which come from that beleaguered country. In late months all of the letters from her Moslem friends there, the Malaka Elkerdy family, have been open and apparently censored. There is ample evidence that some of the letters have not been permitted to reach their destination.

2 Pen Pals Lost

Mrs. Kinstetter, a devout Catholic mother, has lost only two pen pals in the 10 years she has been "traveling." One, Mrs. Eileen Forbes, live in Waitoa, a village on North Island, a 16-year-old Hindu boy of India. Navin Agarwal, suddenly ceased corresponding when the palsied hand of Miss Muriel Wilkes, who lives on the remote island of St. Helena, where she is confined to a wheel chair, after she had exchanged only a few letters with a young woman, the 10 stricken with polio and the amendment to remove the per cent federal excise tax on tickets to live theater productions. The vote was 59-33.

Swedish Adventure

The same month Mrs. Kinstetter might learn that Mrs. Mai-Britt Sodergren and her family of Sandhamn Island off Stockholm have watched the birth of a whale pup somewhere off shore of their island home.

From all of New Zealand there may come word that the gaudy red blossoms of the pohutukawa trees are in full bloom and that Christmas is almost come. The Kinstetter friends there, Mr. and Mrs. Eileen Forbes, live in Waitoa, a village on North Island.

Letters, but not much information, arrive frequently from the palsied hand of Miss Muriel Wilkes, who lives on the remote island of St. Helena, where she is confined to a wheel chair, after she had exchanged only a few letters with a young woman, the 10 stricken with polio and the amendment to remove the per cent federal excise tax on tickets to live theater productions. The vote was 59-33.

Assassination Reaction

The reaction of her foreign friends to the dreadful assassination of President Kennedy was interesting. All of them wrote letters or sent sympathy cards. Mai-Britt, her Swedish friend, wrote "My whole nation grieves for you!"

How does a busy farm wife manage to find the time for her hobby?

"Sometimes," she said, "the work just waits, but the children help me a great deal. We all read the letters and we're all the better for it."

The family lives on a near-century farm which belonged to papers and magazines. Mrs. Kinstetter carefully preserves them in scrap books and sometimes loans them to the teachers at school to use as a supplemental educational device.

Children Help

And Elmer, with the help of his eldest children, manages to work the 180 acres which are five miles from Kewaunee on County Trunk E.

"I think it all began," Elmer explained, "when Lorraine got that used typewriter and then heard of an organization named 'Letters Abroad' (45 E. 63th Street, New York, 21) which encourages such inter-relationships. It's a good hobby and a useful one, and we all enjoy it and learn from it."

Janitor Fired; Feared To Empty Ash Trays

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Douglas Aircraft Co. says it has fired a janitor who refused to empty ash trays for fear of a developing cancer from contact with cigarette butts.

A spokesman said the janitor was concerned by a U.S. surgeon general's report on health hazards of cigarette smoking.

Vocational Education Pushed Into Spotlight
BY SYLVIA PORTER
Crucial to the success of President Johnson's "war on poverty" is the Vocational Education Act of 1963—one of the most sweeping pieces of education legislation in U. S. history. Here are key details.

What is now to be spent for education? Under the act federal aid will more than quadruple by 1967. To initiate programs the vocational education budget just for this fiscal year to end June 30 is being upped $60 million.

For the 1965 fiscal year Congress has authorized $148.5 million in new funds. Thereafter, the budget is to climb steeply, to reach $260 million annually in fiscal year 1967.

Never before has this type of education received so much attention. The funds are to go in grants to the states for expanding vocational education programs, for teacher salaries and teacher training programs, for construction of schools, purchases of supplies, equipment.

Urban Slums
Money is to be spent on experimental vocational "board schools" in urban slum areas where the rate of school drop-outs is frighteningly high. Funds are to go into work-study programs for youngsters who can't afford to continue study unless they have some earnings. There are to be research grants to colleges, universities, and private agencies for the development of experimental programs to help youths who have severe academic, social, economic or other handicaps that prevent them from making progress in regular education systems.

How will today's vocational education be changed? First, vocational education programs will be vastly expanded from coast to coast. Facilities, teaching staffs, classroom space will at least double in the next three to four years.

Second, vocational education curricula will be drastically revised to meet today's job needs. Subjects which are virtually ignored today will be included, such as stenotyping and a whole range of new community services for women, radiography, nucleonics, instrumentation technology, computer programming and many other "high skill" trades for men.

Vocational Education Pushed Into Spotlight

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Crucial to the success of President Johnson's "war on poverty" is the Vocational Education Act of 1963—one of the most sweeping pieces of education legislation in U. S. history. Here are key details.

What is now to be spent for education? Under the act federal aid will more than quadruple by 1967. To initiate programs the vocational education budget just for this fiscal year to end June 30 is being upped $60 million.

For the 1965 fiscal year Congress has authorized $148.5 million in new funds. Thereafter, the budget is to climb steeply, to reach $260 million annually in fiscal year 1967.

Never before has this type of education received so much attention. The funds are to go in grants to the states for expanding vocational education programs, for teacher salaries and teacher training programs, for construction of schools, purchases of supplies, equipment.

There are to be research grants to colleges, universities, and private agencies for the development of experimental programs to help youths who have severe academic, social, economic or other handicaps that prevent them from making progress in regular education systems.

How will today's vocational education be changed? First, vocational education programs will be vastly expanded from coast to coast. Facilities, teaching staffs, classroom space will at least double in the next three to four years.

Second, vocational education curricula will be drastically revised to meet today's job needs. Subjects which are virtually ignored today will be included, such as stenotyping and a whole range of new community services for women, radiography, nucleonics, instrumentation technology, computer programming and many other "high skill" trades for men.

Vocational Education
Third—and this will take time—the vocational education system will cease to be a dumping-ground for academic misfits and will gain vitally important status.

A profoundly magnificent objective of the law is to give dignity and pride to the boy or girl trained through the vocational education system.

What are the "work-study" programs? This is where the new law will pioneer. Starting this July 1, at least $25 million a year will be spent for four years on experimental work-study programs across the country. The programs will be directed at the high school drop-out between the ages of 15 and 21 who simply does not have the money to stay in school.

Up to 25,000 students a year will study part-time and work part-time. They will be paid a subsistence $45 a month and will work in local public service jobs.

Program Experiment
These probably will be the most experimental and fascinating part of the entire vocational education program, for although the act does not specifically say so, the new boarding schools will be geared to the special needs of the under-motivated, under-educated, economically-deprived racial minorities. Only round-the-clock intensive school environment, experts believe, can really help these out-of-school, unemployed youths.

Five of these residential schools are to be built in our cities' slum areas at a cost of $1 million each—one of them in Washington, D. C. Each school will accommodate about 1,000 students between the ages of 15 and 21. The students will get room, board, vocational training, and also will be paid for working at part-time jobs.

This is the start of the great drive ever to help America's youngsters and older workers acquire the skills demanded by this era's job market. This is a giant step toward solving our unemployment problem.

Valentine Party Plans Complete At Bear Creek
BEAR CREEK—Plans for a women's Valentine luncheon at 1 p.m. Feb. 9 at St. Mary Catholic Church hall have been completed by the congregation's Christian Mothers Society.

Mrs. Clifford Flanagan is chairman. Committee members are Mrs. Loy Price, Mrs. Melvin Burtin, Mrs. Francis Dempsey, Mrs. Edward Ellenbecker, Mrs. David Flanagan Jr., Mrs. Edward Flanagan, Mrs. Henry Flanagan and Mrs. Jerry Flanagan. Mrs. Paul Downs is publicity chairman.

Vocational Education Pushed Into Spotlight
BY SYLVIA PORTER
Crucial to the success of President Johnson's "war on poverty" is the Vocational Education Act of 1963—one of the most sweeping pieces of education legislation in U. S. history. Here are key details.

What is now to be spent for education? Under the act federal aid will more than quadruple by 1967. To initiate programs the vocational education budget just for this fiscal year to end June 30 is being upped $60 million.

For the 1965 fiscal year Congress has authorized $148.5 million in new funds. Thereafter, the budget is to climb steeply, to reach $260 million annually in fiscal year 1967.

Never before has this type of education received so much attention. The funds are to go in grants to the states for expanding vocational education programs, for teacher salaries and teacher training programs, for construction of schools, purchases of supplies, equipment.

Urban Slums
Money is to be spent on experimental vocational "board schools" in urban slum areas where the rate of school drop-outs is frighteningly high. Funds are to go into work-study programs for youngsters who can't afford to continue study unless they have some earnings. There are to be research grants to colleges, universities, and private agencies for the development of experimental programs to help youths who have severe academic, social, economic or other handicaps that prevent them from making progress in regular education systems.

How will today's vocational education be changed? First, vocational education programs will be vastly expanded from coast to coast. Facilities, teaching staffs, classroom space will at least double in the next three to four years.

Second, vocational education curricula will be drastically revised to meet today's job needs. Subjects which are virtually ignored today will be included, such as stenotyping and a whole range of new community services for women, radiography, nucleonics, instrumentation technology, computer programming and many other "high skill" trades for men.

Vocational Education
Third—and this will take time—the vocational education system will cease to be a dumping-

Miller Says He Won't Quit GOP Chairman's Job

National Party Officer Won't Comment on Presidential Runners

Washington press reports that son TV station. A full Senate he will quit as Republican national chairman were denied Thursday by Rep. William E. Miller of New York.

"The books of the television station should be examined by coin Day dinner Thursday night at the Conway Hotel, said Miller refused to indicate if reports are "untrue."

"I have said that my term as out preference primary in Wisconsin chairman ends the con's spring election if Rep morning after the national con-John Byrnes of Green Bay had vention has picked a presiden-tial candidate," Miller stated, "but I haven't said anything about quitting."

"All that I have said is that of the state committee, he said. I won't be a candidate for re-election to the House of Repre-sentatives from New York's 40th Congressional District."

Pick Neminee "After the convention has picked a presidential nominee, that man should have some voice in picking a new national chairman. I am not running for Congress and am not actively seeking reappointment as national chairman."

Miller refused to indicate who he feels might be the current front-runner for the Repub-lican presidential nomination in response to a question from a radio newsmen. He explained that the national committee serves the party and doesn't become involved in any type of favoritism.

Miller said "I am not one who believes we'll get a lot of mil-lions out of President Johnson's stereo set" in answer to a re-porter's question.

"However," he said, "much importance must be attached to the investigation now being made by the Senate Rules Com-mittee. It shows that the real question is President Johnson's integrity."

Insurance Policy "He took out a $200,000 life insurance policy and allowed an insurance company connected with Mr. (Robert) Baker to take out advertising time on the John-son television station in Austin, Tex., to defray the cost of the insurance premiums."

"This," Miller said, "reflects on Johnson's integrity." "It has been rumored," he chuckled, "that not only will we further charged, 'that certain get the votes in Chicago, but defense contractors have taken that they will be counted as out advertising time on the John-son television station."

'Open Wounds'

"This is within the province of the state committee, he said. But he did say that "although he is not opposed to preferential primaries, they do open wounds in state party organizations that are not always easily healed; they cost money, and they drain valuable party funds."

"And," he added, "with the very unusual legal situation in Wisconsin whereby Democrats can cross-over and select Repub-lican delegates, I am not at all disturbed."

"All the major candidates are pleased with the Wisconsin Re-publican Party's decision. It was a very popular decision."

Byrnes Rumors

Miller also admitted that he has heard speculation about Byrnes as a vice presidential candidate "outside of Wisconsin circles."

Later, Miller cited strength being picked up by Republican organizations in big Democratic Party industrial strongholds such as Philadelphia, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago.

"Thanks to Hayes Robertson, the Republican chairman in Cook County (Chicago) and his strong party organization, we got Richard B. Ogilvie elected sheriff."

Win Down State

"We won downstate Illinois 300,000 votes during the 1960 presidential election and lost Cook County by 9,000 votes, so there went the whole state."

"Now that we have Ogilvie as sheriff, prospects for Cook Coun-ty and Illinois are very good. He (Ogilvie) has appointed 1,200 honest deputies."

"So now we know," Miller said, "that not only will we further charged, 'that certain get the votes in Chicago, but defense contractors have taken that they will be counted as out advertising time on the John-son television station."

"No More Holes, No More Tears" was the lesson presented at a center meeting for Waupaca County homemakers Tuesday afternoon at the Clintonville City Hall. Miss Ruth M. Diez, extension specialist in clothing, was in charge of the meeting. She is patching overalls. Observing her technique are Mrs. Karl Wohlt, left, and Mrs. Voliva Fischer, both members of the Readfield Homemakers Club. (Laib Photo)

1 Hospitalized In Garage Fire In Kaukauna

Damage Set at $20,000; Welding Tank May be Cause

KAUKAUNA — One man was hospitalized as a result of a $20,000 garage fire at the Harland J. Schuh home, route 2, Kaukauna, about 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

George Huss, 1117 Crooks Ave., Kaukauna, who had been working in the garage at the time of the fire, was released today from Kaukauna Commu-nity Hospital where he was treated for shock.

Authorities said a leak in an acetylene tank line may have started the blaze which destroyed a 29 by 44-foot garage, two 1963 model truck cabs, and more than $3,000 worth of garage equipment.

Exhaust Water Volunteers from the Town of Wrightstown fire department answered the call and after ex-hausting their water supply in an effort to quell the blaze, the Town of Vandenberg depart-ment, housed at the Little Chute fire station, was called to the scene.

Vandenberg firemen concen-trated on wetting down the house and adjacent buildings to prevent the fire from spreading. The garage and contents were a total loss. The fire started when Huss attempted to light the acetylene torch, and flames shot through the building. Huss and another worker, Francis De Groot, fled the burning building. The Little Chute police accom-panied the Vandenberg truck to the scene and took Huss to the Kaukauna Community Hos-pital where he was admitted and treated for shock. Huss is in the feed and grain business, and said the loss was partially cov-ered by insurance.

County to Study Labor Agreement

Union Representing Employees of Outagamie Hospital Present Plan

The Outagamie County employees received a 3 per cent wage hike at the beginning of the year along with other coun-ty employees.

Among the county employe policies is the stipulation in the draft which would allow female employees maternity leave. The county's employe policy forbids maternity leave and requires that female employees quit their jobs when they are seven months pregnant.

Although the committee did not indicate when it planned to continue talks with the local, Swanson and Frailing said they felt progress was being made in the acceptance of the labor draft. Schreiter said the com-mittee would contact the union when it felt that the talks should be continued. He said the committee planned to study the proposed draft before meet-ing again with union represen-tatives.

The proposed agreement calls for six paid holidays per year, New Year's Day, Memorial Day, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, six days of sick leave per year, a 40-hour work week with time and one-half for overtime, two week vaca-tions after two years of con-tinued service, and grievance and discipline procedures.

The contract also would estab-lish the union as exclusive bar-gaining agent for purposes of conferences and negotiations with the hospital and that the contract should be submitted for renegotiation on an annual basis.

The two-year-old union was represented in talks by Arvin Frailing, local president, and Robert Swanson, representing the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees. Frail-ing said the proposed draft is the first submitted by the union.

Hospital Workers Frailing also added the local represents approximately 50 per cent of the employees at the Outagamie County Hospital, Williams, 20, 4206 Shady Lane, and the Golden Age Home.

Swanson said that the Wiscon-sin Council of County and Mun-icipal Employees began initial ne-gotiations for a labor contract over a year ago, but "internal problems" halted discussions.

Swanson clarified after the talks that the "internal prob-lem" he referred to were the resignation of Superintendent Norbert Loerke and the whole-sale turnover of the board of trustees after Loerke's resigna-tion.

Swanson commented that the delay in the acceptance of a la-bor agreement and the internal problems have hurt growth of the local union. He said if the union were composed of em-ployes in private industry, the union would have been on strike "long ago."

Enlarge Draft The draft submitted Thursday will have to be enlarged to in-clude clarification of the divi-sion of authority between the county board and the board of trustees, a dues checkoff stip-ulation which would require that union dues be taken from the employees' checks by the payroll clerk, a definite rest break stip-ulation for female employees, and a stipulation allowing full pay for employees who partici-pate in union - management discussions during working hours, Swanson said.

Hospital employees were will-ing to support a proposed wage classification and efficiency study, Swanson said and will hold off discussion of new wage rates and classification until the study is completed. Hospital

Spring Election Looks Interesting

The large field of candidates for various municipal offices in the Fox Cities is a healthy sign for any community. It indicates people are taking an interest in hometown affairs and want to do their part should the electorate favor them at the polls.

Here in Appleton, 51 persons filed nomination papers before the deadline, and from the field will be elected a mayor, city clerk, treasurer, assessor, two School Board members, 11 aldermen and 10 county supervisors.

Indications are there will be considerable competition for offices in most instances, and campaigning should get underway in earnest in the approaching weeks as candidates "woo" the voters for the April 7 citywide election.

Two of the city's constitutional officials, the mayor and assessor, will have opposition, as will several members of the common council. The fact that five persons are running for School Board would indicate good interest in the city's future educational program and policies.

Disappointing, however, was the small turnout of candidates for County Board posts. In fact, two newcomers to politics are assured of getting seats on the board because they were the only ones filing papers for the positions. There should be considerably more interest in county government than what has been shown by Appleton residents this year.

During the coming weeks we urge you to learn all you can about candidates for citywide offices, and those who are seeking office in the respective wards. Find out what their plans are for a future Appleton, Outagamie County and Fox Cities.

And, for those of you not registered to vote in the Spring election, now is the time to get registered. Check with the city clerk in your community for details.

An Up-to-Date Immigration Act

Senator Gaylord Nelson is among those seeking revision of the part of the McCarran-Walter Act which sets quotas for immigration to the United States. The quotas are based upon the national origins system which presupposes that it is better for the United States to keep its national and racial population ratios about the same as they have been for at least the last forty years.

The act permits the immigration of 154,857 persons every year. The rest of the world is divided into areas and the quota for any one area is set at one-sixth of one per cent of the number of those of that particular national origin who were in the United States in 1920. It also places a ceiling of 2,000 on immigration from the "Asia-Pacific triangle" with the exception of Australia and New Zealand.

The intent of the quota system is clear and discriminatory in itself. The people from certain countries are considered better, at least to become citizens of the United States, than those from other areas. The high quotas quite obviously go to Western Europe and the British Isles. By inference Anglo-Saxons are considered as more worthy potential citizens than Africans, Greeks, Japanese or Brazilians.

It can be argued with some basis that perhaps our system of government is more suited to the temperament of northern Europe—until we remember Nazi Germany, the French Revolution, the British oppression in various parts of the world and the Irish Republican Army. Then reason and due process no longer seem exclusive possessions of the Anglo-Saxon or the northern European. And there is just enough of Hitler's Nordic theory about the defense of the national origins system to produce a chill.

In practice the present immigration act discriminates against the close relatives of United States citizens from the areas where quotas are low. It takes no account of the demands for specific abilities or skills in our country. It results in special bills to permit the entrance of refugees from specific areas when we become emotionally aroused about some tyranny. And it often means that thousands wait for entrance while the quotas from such nations as Ireland and England go unfilled every year.

Senator Philip Hart of Michigan has introduced two bills to replace the present law. One is the Administration bill which would phase out the current legislation over a five year period. As many as 164,500 immigrants would be admitted each year on a first-come, first-served basis according to the following formula: 50 per cent of the total to persons of exceptional skills, training or education who would be "advantageous to the United States;" 30 per cent to unmarried sons and daughters of U. S. citizens and unable to enter as non-quota because they are over 21; 20 per cent to spouses and children of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence. As the law develops the total authorized quota from any one country could not exceed 10 per cent of the total. Those disadvantaged by the change in the law could be admitted at the President's discretion up to 50 per cent of the unallocated quota numbers.

Senator Hart has a bill of his own which would be more liberal. As many as 250,000 immigrants could enter each year and quotas would be based upon refugee status, ratio of the country to the world's population and according to the number who immigrated to the U. S. in the last fifteen years. In addition there would be non-quota status for anyone born in the Western Hemisphere, the parents of U. S. citizens and those with special skills in demand and their wives and children.

The result of either bill will be a change in the population ratios in the United States to some extent. There have long been waiting lists from nations in Asia and Southern Europe with small quotas. More could be admitted under the provisions of either bill.

But we cannot justify, on either practical or humanitarian grounds, the head-in-the-sand attitude which Australia maintains on immigration policy. We are far too closely tied up with the rest of the world to try to keep everyone out. And while we should maintain strict limits to immigration, in general the ones we seek are those who seek us, not as a land of gold and gadgets, but where special skills can be used in a climate where the abilities and ideas and values of a man are judged, not his language or the shape of his eyes.

Prospective immigrants should be carefully screened. We do not want the merely dissatisfied and lazy; we have enough already here whose ancestors may have come in the first load. But the national origins system is sadly out of date and perhaps it always was.

Boo!

Most parents frown upon tantrums. In fact the youngster who throws himself on the floor, kicks his heels and screeches as protest against not getting something is likely to wind up in bed and maybe somewhere in the interest of peace, quiet and discipline we concur.

But Dr. Eleanor Metheny, University of Southern California physical education professor, suggests that a good scream is one of the best things that can happen to most of us in these tension-packed days.

Dr. Metheny says that the screamer doesn't have to bother anybody; he doesn't even have to make any noise. He should clench his fists, shut his eyes, twist his face, open his mouth and scream—only without a sound. This is wonderful exercise for the muscles and circulation of the face and neck, says Dr. Metheny. It relaxes the nerves. And it may get something off the chest that otherwise means incipient ulcers, high blood pressure, somebody fired or a boss chewed out.

And it certainly will scare the dickens out of anyone wandering by.

War Meeting at Adkins' Hall

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 30, 1864.

Quite a spirited meeting was held in Adkins' Hall, President Mason spoke of our National debt and resources in comparison with the debt and resources of England, claiming that our debt, to be proportionate with England's, in comparison with the resources of the two countries, would be $1,000,000,000.

He argued that if the government would lease out the immense mineral lands at a uniform rate, a sufficient revenue would be derived therefrom to liquidate all our indebtedness within 50 years.

He also urged the necessity of filling our quota by volunteering. Col. Pomeroy detailed in a brief and soldierlike manner various topics of interest connected with the army. Col. Pomeroy said the coming campaign would be severe and decisive. He thought the close of the war would find that the total population of the South (black and white) had been diminished by one-half from disease and battle.

He thought the resources of the South were very generally exhausted. Other speeches were made, and the utmost harmony prevailed.

Treasurer Byron Douglas reported nearly $1,400 subscribed (This money was to go to army volunteers). A committee was chosen to secure the necessary men.

Johnson Faces Problem of Viet Nam—in Election Year

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — To fight or to negotiate — that is the fateful decision now squarely up to President Johnson on what to do about war-racked and politically unstable South Viet Nam.

This "agonizing reappraisal" confronts him and his top diplomatic and military advisers as the result of two colliding catalysts: President de Gaulle's recognition of Red China and advocacy of the neutralization of Viet Nam, and Major Gen. Nguyen Khanh's sudden seizure of power.

Want to Fight

Flatly disagreeing with De Gaulle, the new Vietnamese "strong-man" emphatically favors expanding and intensifying the protracted struggle against the Communist aggressors — by taking the war directly to its source, North Viet Nam.

This crucial policy divergence on the international stage is exactly duplicated in the inner councils of the Johnson administration.

Key military leaders want the U. S. to fully support Khanh in taking the war slashing to North Viet Nam, chiefly with air attacks on Communist supply lines and highly vulnerable industrial targets constructed in the last few years. This has long been urged by Gen. Paul Harkins, U. S. commander in Viet Nam.

Rusk Opposed

Strenuously opposed are the principal foreign policy makers of the Johnson administration as well as its predecessor — Secretary Dean Rusk, McGeorge Bundy, special White House assistant on foreign affairs, and Dr. Walt Rostow, head of the State Department's Policy Planning Council.

This influential group contends that enlargement of the South Vietnamese war would almost certainly escalate it in-aid Sawall and Dick Mollineau.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, Feb. 5, 1954.

Two winners of the annual DAR citizenship awards were Beverly Wydevan at Kimberly High School and Mary Feldmann at Kaukauna High School. Both girls were active in their respective high schools. Miss Feldmann as 1954 president of the Student Council and Miss Wydevan was a four-year honor student, member of the Student Council and editor of the Kimberly High newspaper.

Class representatives of the new Pep Club organized at Winneconne High School included Dick Ehle, Herbert Helm, Rita Procknow, Donna Hubli, Mary Patenaude, Bill Siebert and Beverly Broehm.

Paul J. Balie Jr. of Clintonville was awarded the silver wings of an Air Force pilot and was commissioned a second lieutenant in ceremonies at Enid, Okla.

Thirteen boys enrolled in the YMCA sponsored radio communications class to be taught by Ed Douglass Jr. The youngsters, from the third through 12th grades, included Tom Theisen, Little Chwicz, Wayne Hillegas, Kaukauna, Steve Ward, Frank Kreiling, Don Weiss, Ken Smith, Thomas Kray, Roger Rettler, Fred Baumgartner, Steven Stillman, Bill Isenberg and David Kestley, all of Appleton.

to a general conflict involving both regular North Vietnamese troops and Red Chinese forces.

As Rusk, Bundy and Rostow see it, the situation could "quickly deteriorate into another Korea."

On the Spot

It is up to the President to determine which course to pursue. The decision rests squarely in his hands, and whatever he does presents grave risks. Intensification of the war would immediately mean heavily increased costs — at a time when the President is insistently stressing economy. Expenditures in South Viet Nam are now running at around $500 million a year. They could easily soar to several or more billion very quickly.

Also, a large-scale war with certain increased casualties would be a serious political liability in a presidential election year.

On the other hand, pursuing neutralization would lay the administration open to vehement cries of "appeasement." This denunciation would rise from Democrats as well as Republicans. Such bipartisan blasts already have been voiced in the explosive Panama crisis and the President bluntly warned against giving any crucial ground there.

What to Do?

In an election year an "appeasement" challenge would also present a thorny political problem.

It's a toss-up which road the President will take.

White House insiders describe him as bent on "tightening up both the fighting and negotiating." Exactly what is meant by that is not defined. It could mean almost anything.

Bringing the war to North Viet Nam is not a new idea. It was strenuously urged by Gen. Harkins and others a year ago — and finally rejected by the late President Kennedy after considerable back-stage pondering and deliberation.

Then as now Sec. Rusk, McGeorge Bundy and Dr. Rostow were vigorously opposed, and won Kennedy over to their view.

Gen. Harkins View

They succeeded despite categorical warnings from Harkins and other authorities that North Viet Nam was steadily strengthening the Communist attackers, and that it was essential to take the initiative and strike back at enemy supply lines.

Unless that was done, Harkins foresaw greatly increased Red attacks — a prediction that has all too accurately been fulfilled.

The brilliant U. S. commander who was deputy chief of staff under the late famed Gen. George Patton, made this dire prophecy in a comprehensive report to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In this analysis, Harkins bluntly stated that intensified Communist attacks were certain unless the war was taken directly to them.

Publishable highlights of this report are:

"This upward trend of activity by the Viet Cong and supporting North Vietnamese forces is due to a combination of several reasons: The relative lull and settlement in Laos, plus the fact that the overland routes to South Viet Nam via Laos are now for all practical purposes firmly in Pathet-Lao, North Vietnamese control, have made it possible for the Communists to again concentrate on South Viet Nam.

Restored Strength

"Also the Viet Cong have restored their strength (11,000 to 22,000 during 1962) to a level to permit increased operations; and a final factor, the recent military reorganization of Viet Cong forces to include North Vietnamese forces, i.e., anti-aircraft units, has given these forces additional fire power.

"The Communist bloc may be emboldened by their success in Laos to engage in a gradual build-up of their covert support to the Viet Cong insurgents. This is indicated by the infiltration of heavy weapons and armed North Vietnamese detachments via Laos.

"In conclusion, it is felt that the Viet Cong will make every effort to increase their effectiveness in insurgent operations with continued and possibly open Vietnamese assistance."

Under the ousted junta, headed by Major General Duong Van Minh, the U. S. limited Vietnamese units to a six-hour supply of ammunition. This was due to their heavy loss of equipment to the Communists.

Khanh has asked for a greater supply of ammunition, and probably will get it. (All Rights Reserved)

Why County Highway Leaders Are Against Reynolds' Road Plan

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In some respects Gov. Reynolds may regard as the "cruellest cut of all" the chilly refusal of the county highway administrators of Wisconsin to become involved in his campaign for an accelerated state highway construction program through a new bonding corporation.

These are the men who are the key functionaries in what is sometimes called the "highway interest" among competitive spending groups in Wisconsin affairs. These are the men who were in the vanguard of previous highway service expansion campaigns, such as the motor fuel tax increase acts of the legislature in the 1930's, 1940's, and as recently as 1955 when the Kohler administration managed to bring the segregated fuel tax levy to its present rate of six cents.

These are the men, in short, without whose support no politically experienced Wisconsin politician would forecast success for a new round of highway financing.

WHY?

So the question arises: why should these knowledgeable, normally cooperative, and representative politicians in the county seats have gathered in Milwaukee to denounce, in effect, the most ambitious highway construction blueprint of the period?

The governor has offhandedly surmised that the county men are indifferent to his plan because as local politicians they want a share of the additional highway expenditures budget for their own local highways, and for their own construction budgets. His is a freeway program, in its essentials, and inevitably there will be many localities of the state that will have no direct benefits except such theoretical and intangible gains as may accrue from the strengthening of the state economic community as a whole.

Doubtless that is a part of the reason for the resistance. Doubtless also there is some reluctance among these courthouse leaders, most of whom represent local environments strongly Republican in persuasion, to become a part of a campaign which Reynolds has made quite clear he regards as a nearly indispensable reelection theme.

It may be also that there is a conservative bias here, reflecting the sentiment of rural Wisconsin, against the huge new bonding commitment that the state Democratic administration has envisioned, although it is only fair to note that these same men over the years have been willing enough to float county bonds on behalf of state highway improvements in their own neighborhoods.

ANOTHER REASON

But it seems most likely that the county commissioners' deliberate brush-off of the Reynolds plan related to their conviction that it will almost surely fail in the spring referendum, and their unwillingness to board what they regard as a sinking ship.

Timing is one of the essentials of effective political management. Previous tax and budget moves in the state highway field came after careful preparation. There have been signs of such preparation among the county highway officials and their allies during the last year. It seems a fair supposition that they would now be launching their own campaign, in preparation for the 1965 legislature, except for the unexpected intervention of the Democratic state administration.

The Reynolds blueprint, bold and precedent breaking as it is, has become involved in partisan politics, as shown by the Republican legislature's referral of the plan to the spring referendum ballot and probable repudiation. The canny courthouse men, having the other reservations as noted, have plainly concluded that it would be discreet to avoid any connection with the state administration project under the circumstances.

Verbal Habits Tell About Personality

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Our unconscious verbal habits tell others more about us (if they are tuned in) than we realize. The other night, I was watching a TV master of ceremonies who said three times in ten minutes, "To tell the truth, I really don't."

Harris

He gave me the distinct impression that telling the truth does not come naturally or easily to him; else why bother to preface a perfectly ordinary remark with this statement.

"To be frank about it" is a phrase used only by people who are not normally frank; a candid and open person would not even think he was being frank, nor would he half-apologize for this trait.

The 'Leveler'

On a lower social level, the man who says "I'll level with you" immediately brands himself as not a leveler, if it takes a conscious, articulated statement to proclaim it. Those accustomed to dealing honestly don't have to strike a moral pose before doing so. Then there are some who say, "Well, everyone is entitled to his opinion" in a tone clearly signifying that he wishes it weren't so, and he would prefer a society in which everyone were not entitled to it. Those who end nearly every phrase or sentence with "You know? You know?" are more pathetic than reprehensible. They fear an inability to communicate (perhaps because their parents never really listened to them when they were little), and are desperately trying to break through the barrier of words that separates them from others.

"My Humble Opinion" is one of the most unconsciously arrogant phrases a person can utter. The essence of humility is unawareness of itself as such; and to call one's opinion "humble" is a contradiction in terms and a psychological tip-off that great egotism is lurking in the wings waiting for applause.

Of course, nearly everyone has enough Freudian sophistication by now to recognize that the person who tells you an unpleasant truth "for your own good" is not doing it for your own good at all, but for the malicious delight he gets in recounting it. "It's none of my business, but..." is a comparable phrase used by the same kind of person, who really thinks it is his business, or intends to make it so.

The ways we express ourselves reveal more about ourselves than the actual substance of what we say. Words in themselves are toneless and valueless; it is the emphasis, the expression, the "music" behind the words that disclose our feelings and provoke others to mistrust or sympathy or anger. Lawrence Says
Civil Rights Law May
Turn Into a Boomerang

As With Prohibition, Inability to Enforce Legislation May Do More Harm Than Good

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — It looks now as if enactment of a "civil rights" law prohibiting discrimination in hotels, motels and eating places may prove to be a boomerang. It could hasten the day when the legislation itself will become a dead letter due to an inability in the part of the federal government, even with all its resources, to carry out an effective enforcement operation.

Under existing constitutional law, there is no sanction for the legislation. But the hope of its sponsors is that the Supreme Court will reverse all earlier decisions and bow to the advocates of integration. Attempts to enforce even constitutional laws sometimes have resulted in bitter feeling, rather than an amiable adjustment of differences. The nation's experience with the liquor-prohibition laws is a case in point. In fact, after a dozen years of frustration over the problem of enforcement, another amendment to the Constitution turned this whole issue back to the States.

Already the effort to desegregate public schools is backfiring. The boycotts and disturbances in the north are more numerous than in the south, and are often characterized by violence. A New York City newspaper reported the other day that the Negro boycott of the public schools there "was in disregard for the law," and that it did more "to alienate black and white, and alienate them when they are young so they can carry it with them forever, than anything that has happened in this city in 25 years."

Race Disputes
Some progress toward adjustment of racial disputes has been made in various parts of the country, but this may be adversely affected when the "public accommodations" rules become known to the public and when the problem of enforcement is more widely discussed, than it is today. One business man writes of this prospect as follows:

"Many large hotels and restaurants are now integrated, but, reserve the right not to serve guests for dozens of reasons, women in shorts or beachwear, men without jacket or tie, men or women that are loud, disorderly, or drunk, etc. Under federal law, how could such a dining room refuse to serve a drunken Negro and not be subject to litigation? Aside from the trouble and expense of going into court, how could the hotel prove the Negro's rejection was due to disorderly conduct or excessive drinking if the plaintiff claims discrimination?"

Many Restrictions
Motels often do not rent to travelers with local license tags on their cars, or without luggage, or if they are in any way suspicious. They will provide excuses for discrimination. Undoubtedly word will get around in various communities that certain hotels, motels and eating places actually do discriminate racially, and that only white persons will be welcome. "No-body will advertise such a fact, but it will be spread by word-of-mouth."

The problem often is really not one involving any anti-racial feeling on the part of the motel owner himself, but he discovers frequently that he can get more business by discrimination than by non-discrimination.

The "public accommodations" law has been urged as a way to overcome these defects, but the prohibition experience argues the other way—that the businesses which comply with the law may find themselves at a disadvantage while their competitors use subterfuges to deny their facilities to those they do not choose to serve.

In the prohibition era, moreover, it took a vast army of federal agents and large legal staffs to carry out an enforcement program involving customer relations. But bootlegging flourished and speakeasies were established to sell liquor in defiance of the law and the Constitution. Some persons were jailed, but a far greater number defied the law.

Public Accommodations
The big debate on the "public accommodations" section will come in the Senate, but all indications now are that the legislation will be enacted into law before summer. This means that the enforcement problem will be before the country soon thereafter, and a large number of lawsuits may be expected.

Meanwhile, the school-integration problem is reaching its most acute stage because neighborhood schools will no longer be protected from invasion by those who live outside the neighborhood. Efforts now are being made to produce a "racial balance" by transporting students from all parts of a city or county in order to integrate a larger and larger number of Negroes with whites.

This is encouraging enrollment in private schools. In some northern areas there is bitterness among white citizens who cannot afford to send their children to private schools and who resent the enforcement of integration.

Theoretically, the Supreme Court never ordered "integration" as such, but merely declared that segregation in public education is not constitutional. There has been no high court decision on whether, under the Constitution, the states can remain their right to require children living in a certain neighborhood to attend schools in the district geographically pre-arranged for them.

That is the thinking of Western and Chinese experts in Hong Kong and Taipei who have been studying Red China's behavior patterns for years.

The few Chinese Communists

you can talk to in Hong Kong that possibility is considered remote.

Even if Red China wins a seat in the General Assembly by a two-thirds majority that would not automatically mean a Peking representative will come striding down the U.N. corridors.

U.N. Seat
Peking is not expected to accept a U.N. seat so long as a representative of Nationalist China is seated there. To do so would be to abandon all claim to Formosa and to admit the sovereignty of this anti-Communist island 100 miles off the China coast.

Hong Kong students of Chinese communism consider this inconceivable.

"Red China's real problem is not to win a seat in the United Nations but to oust Nationalist China from its seat," a political expert here said.

Sub Disaster
Accents Care
Of Survivors

Social Security
Protection Afforded
Qualified Widows

The U.S.S. Thresher submarine disaster emphasized the substantial amount of survivors protection provided by social security.

A total of 129 men lost their lives when the Thresher failed to surface from a deep test dive. In 86 cases survivors were left who qualified for monthly survivor payments or lump-sum death payments. The remaining 43 young servicemen left no qualified survivors.

When a deceased insured person is not survived by an eligible spouse the law provides that the lump-sum death payment shall be available only to the extent that burial expenses would be actually paid — and there were, of course, none in these 43 cases.

Of the 86 men, 84 were survived by widows; 62 of these widows had minor children in their care. Six widows were expecting their first child. These widows will receive payments until their youngest child is 18, and again at 62 if they have not remarried. Two men were not survived by widows but were survived by minor children.

Qualified Children
There were 178 children who qualified for monthly payments. About one-half of these children were under 5 years of age and 80 per cent were under 19 years of age.

The average family payment was $133.75 per month. Some were less than $100 per month while others went as high as $254 per month.

Using statistics on mortality and remarriage it has been estimated that the survivors of these men will receive $1,672,000 and total payments possibly could be as high as $2,261,000.

Although a disaster such as the Thresher case is rare, it provides a striking example of the protection afforded by social security. At the beginning of 1963 about 91 million workers in the U.S.A. had survivors insurance protection and almost 3 million families, in which the wage earner had died, were receiving monthly survivor benefits.

UW Opera Company To Give 'Cinderella'

Rossini's 'La Cenerentola' Scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 15, at Fox Valley Center

The Rossini opera "La Cenerentola," more familiarly known in this country as "Cinderella," will come to the Fine Arts stage at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center Feb. 15. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Presenting the production will be members of the University of Wisconsin Touring Opera Company from the state university's music department. The tour opens Feb. 9 with the first performance at West High School in Green Bay. The Center's performance is the second in the tour which will take the Madison performers to eight Wisconsin cities during February and March.

Cast in the lead role is Gretchen Smith, who had the lead in last year's touring opera production of "Cosi fan Tutte." Miss Smith was a Vilas Scholar in voice at the UW last year and now teaches at Illinois State College at Normal.

Marion Paton will sing the role of Clorinda, Cinderella's step-sister. Her husband, John Glenn Paton, will sing the Prince Ramiro role.

Cleveland School Integration Past A Major Crisis

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland's school integration crisis, which was marked by violence at one school a week ago, is over a major hurdle.

The United Freedom Movement, a confederation of civil rights groups, has accepted the Cleveland School Board's latest proposal. That proposal calls for immediate integration at three predominantly white schools whose vacant classrooms were being used by classes transported from the predominantly Negro Hazeldell School.

The Hazeldell pupils in the future will be considered as pupils of the receiving schools and will no longer be segregated, the board said.

Appearing at University

The UFM announced after a rally Wednesday night that it is calling an end to picketing and demonstrations. Planned boycotts of schools and downtown stores also are canceled, the UFM said.

The Collinwood Improvement Association, the predominantly white group involved, met Wednesday night for two hours but took no action on the school board's plan.

"We want to give this matter further consideration," said Albert A. Ballaw, the association's president.

And this famous lady of the more... American theater thinks most... players feel the same way.

After portraying hundreds of... career that has spanned 58... years, Miss Hayes has come to... the conclusion:

"I think people want to be... told that we can make it — that we're not hopeless — that we are masters of our fate and can rise to occasions."

"I think they want to be told that, and should be told that, because it's true," she said in a talk before the Women's National Press Club.

Miss Hayes, now 63, is in Washington on something of a theater crusade.

Guest Star

She has been appearing since Jan. 22 as guest star with the Catholic University Theater in "Good Morning, Miss Dove," adapted by William McCleery from the novel by Frances Gray Patton. Her fellow actors are students of the University's Drama Department.

The effort is directed at helping to raise funds for the proposed $15 million theater for these drama students.

Miss Hayes is portraying a school teacher named Miss Dove, who, like another of her famous characters, "Victoria Regina," is a woman she says saw her obligations and lived up to them "to the best of her abilities." That's the stuff Miss Hayes thinks plays should be made of.

Asked if she was for "positive decency and loving kindness, rather than drab hopelessness we've been getting," Miss Hayes considered a moment and conceded:

Missionary Spirit

"Well, yes."

Miss Hayes has a missionary spirit about the theater, where she played her first part at age five. Explaining her venture with Catholic University, she said she came here not only because she wanted the group

Stardusters Begin Fifth Social Season

Their fifth party season was launched by members of the Stardusters Dance Club Saturday evening. "Me and my Shadow" was the dance theme, with the famous old maestro conjured up in poster decorations of a band leader, top hat, cane and gloves.

The affair was held at the Conway Hotel, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steckelberg as chairmen. Assisting them were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Spaay, Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Timmel, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Merkle, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bauknecht and Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher.

Pre-dance parties were held at the homes of the Walter Stahls, the Robert Stumps, the Roy Ciskes, the Melvin Timmels and the Lee Loughrans.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kolbe joined Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rougeau as the couples arrived at the Conway Hotel for Saturday evening's party. The dance was preceded by cocktail parties at the homes of members. At left, Mrs. Clifford Merkle adjusts her husband's name tag.

Shadows Were cast as members of the Stardusters Dance Club stood before a poster depicting their party theme Saturday evening. Above are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steckelberg, chairmen, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Winarski. At right, sitting out a dance, are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Femal. The party marked the beginning of the fifth year of the dance club. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

FUTURE STEPMOTHER'S PROBLEM

Dear Louise: I am marrying a widower with two sons, ages 14 and 16. Several people have told me that it wouldn't be correct for the boys to attend the ceremony. Is that correct? Neither of the boys have suits. If it is permissible that they go to the wedding.

Davis would it be all right for them to wear slacks and sport shirts? Louise Davis Answers: I can't imagine why anyone would tell you that the two boys shouldn't attend the ceremony. Of course they may go unless there is extreme bitterness or resentment on their part that their father is remarrying. If you and they get along nicely, they should attend. After all, you will be their stepmother and excluding them from the wedding could easily cause ill feelings against you and their father. I think that they would be pleased and flattered if you enlist their help in some way, even if it is to usher a handful of people to their seats for the ceremony or to be "assistant hosts" at a social gathering afterwards. Slacks and sport shirts wouldn't be appropriate. They should wear "Sunday best" suits and I hope your fiancé arranges to get them. You can be sure that the boys would swell with pride and feel quite grown up.

Americans at the base the right to Cuban water. But long ago a private company contracted to supply the base with water from a Cuban river.

When Castro took over Cuba, he took over the company and has kept on selling the base the water for $14,000 a month.

Last Sunday the U.S. Coast Guard seized four Cuban fishing vessels off the Florida Coast, charged they were operating within American territorial waters and turned them and their crews over to Florida authorities.

Nine crewmen were released for various reasons, 29 were held. Castro argued they had not been seized in American waters but in intercontinental waters.

So he announced:

The Guantanamo water supply from Cuba would be shut off until the rest of the crewmen were released. Thursday night, he said he would turn on the water for one hour daily.

Water Devices

The United States can supply water to the base by its own devices without any water from inside Cuba. But this means millions of gallons a week. That's both a lot of water and a lot of trouble.

This country could make life easier for itself by yielding to Castro and releasing the prisoners, provided he turned on the water again. But this would be a Castro victory.

The Castro and Panamanian defiance, if successful, would be an encouragement to other small nations, knowing this of French prestige while looking for business for French traders.

And certainly Castro and others, like Panama, understand it. Both Cuba and Panama have defied the United States but in such a way—by arguing legality—as to have some plausibility and win sympathy.

Protests Treaty

Panama protests the American-Panamanian treaty of 1903 which gave this country a right to stay in Panama's Canal Zone forever, a treaty arranged when Panama was even weaker and more helpless than it is now.

Castro is irked by another 1903 treaty, this one American-Cuban, arranged when Cuba was also far weaker than now.

Russia, the other big master it gives the United States the right to the Guantanamo naval base, as long as it wants to stay there.

He had a very simple solution: Send the Marines to turn on the water. But the answer isn't problems, never knowing what there, quite that simple, as President Johnson decided later.

Crushing Power

While this country has the more power than any nations in the world, it first has to worry about a couple of other things, either they would destroy them both.

Mother Has Difficulty in Following Dr. Jones' Advice

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: It has been seven months since I last wrote to you about my 5-year-old son's problem. The suggestions you made were helpful; but I couldn't follow them through for more than a few weeks at a time. I would fall back into my old patterns, then try again, and fall again.

Finally, I took my son for psychological counseling on the suggestion of our pediatrician. The psychologist sees my son for an hour a week. But after almost six months, there still isn't any progress. And I'm still doing the things with my son that you suggested I stop — of course, that's because my son is still the same, so I can't help reacting to him in the same way.

Can you give me some reassurance that we're doing the right thing? Some of our friends think we're foolish to be paying out hundreds of dollars for counseling. Do you think so?

Mrs. B. D.

If you can't stop yourself from treating your son in ways that you know promote his problems, why not invest some additional money in counseling for yourself? That's much wiser than giving up your efforts to help your son. And it's more sensible than hoping that one hour a week of counseling can possibly counteract the effects on your son of the tensions you create and sustain for the rest of the week.

I hope you won't give up. Clearing up your problems won't be so horrid, you know. Just think of how silly it is for a grown woman to say she's forced to react in a certain way by her 5-year-old child. You know it's the other way around. You'll feel great when you can say proudly that you have succeeded in making a healthy home for yourself and your son.

Dear Dr. Jones: I have a 3-year-old son who does not talk. He won't even say Momma or Daddy. He can laugh or cry as big as I can, though. Do you think he's just lazy or what?

MRS. W. S.

If he says no words at all, it's possible he may have some physical difficulty preventing him from hearing your words or otherwise interfering with his shaping words. Ask your M.D. to give him a thorough examination. If no treatment is indicated, try to become more relaxed about your son's silence. Talk to him and sing to him, but don't try to coax him to say anything in reply.

Dr. Eve Jones replies personally to every letter she receives from her readers. Send your questions, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Dr. Jones, c/o this newspaper.

Strength Embarrassing To Both U. S., Russia

Nations Like France, Cuba and Panama Understand and Push Luck to the Limit

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The do more damage than Castro: sheer embarrassment of power. 1. It must be careful how it was reflected best, perhaps, in time when it is preaching reasonableness as Fidel Castro cut off, sonable settlements, trying to most of the water supply of the influence small and backward U.S. naval base at Guantanamo nations, and arguing their right to self-determination.

One member after another Thursday got up to say this would do. If this country took military action against Castro while being vague on what. Not to and Russia leaped to his defense. Sen. Barry Goldwater, up in fence, what started out as a mini-New Hampshire campaigning nor foray would be a world war for the Republican presidential nomination.

He had a very simple solution: Send the Marines to turn on the water. But the answer isn't problems, never knowing what there, quite that simple, as President Johnson decided later.

Nobody understands this embarrassed immobility of the giants better than French President Charles de Gaulle. He feels free to butt in all over, talking of French prestige while looking for business for French traders.

And certainly Castro and others, like Panama, understand it. Both Cuba and Panama have defied the United States but in such a way—by arguing legality—as to have some plausibility and win sympathy.

OF THE PURE OIL PERFORMANCE TRIALS

WE'RE NOT SURPRISED

In three grueling tests of acceleration, braking and economy, Pontiac GTO with an optional 348-hp engine outscored every other car in its class to cop the winner's trophy for Class 2 of the NASCAR sanctioned and supervised event. This meant beating five other makes with large V-8 engines of 362 to 400 cubic inches, each a finely-tuned production car with a skilled driver at the wheel.
